FEAR GIRL HAS ELOPED WITH STUDENT

KATHERINE T. FLEURY

She disappeared from her home in Amherst last Friday at the same time that a married man student at the Agricultural College went away. They had been keeping company for a year.

Amherst, Feb. 15.—The parents of Miss Katherine T. Fleury of Grove street have heard no word yet from their daughter, who disappeared mysteriously last Friday. They are convinced that she has eloped with Harold E. Smith of Springfield, a freshman student in the two-year shop course at Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Smith, although he has a wife in Springfield, is known to have been keeping company with the Fleury girl for the past year. The same day that the girl disappeared Smith left his lodgings here. He had been in the habit of making week-end visits to his home in Springfield, but this time he paid his landlady in full and took all his personal belongings with him.

The girl is described as being 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs 118 pounds, has brown bobbed hair and gray eyes, and at the time last seen wore a red hat and a polo coat. The case is under investigation by Chief of Police Melvin D. Graves and State Detective Joseph Daly.

Teuton Police Clashes With Invading Troops Cause Drastic Order

London, Feb. 15 (By International News Service).—An urgent request for British co-operation in the Rhineland was made here today by M. Letroquer, French minister of public works. It was understood Premier A. Bonar Law said he could announce no decision at this time. The conference adjourned till tomorrow.

Amsterdam, Feb. 15.—Hostility of the Germans has risen to such a pitch at Essen that French artillery, tanks, armored cars and cavalry have been massed there, say dispatches from the German frontier. Preparations have been completed for throwing up earthworks along the "front."

Dusseldorf, Feb. 15 (By the Associated Press).—Ten thousand German security police throughout the occupied region are to be disarmed by order of General Degoutte because of the general attitude of the police toward the forces of occupation.

Hereafter the Schutzpolizein are to be considered by the French as the protectors of Ruhr communities, without any connection with Berlin.

In addition to the recent incident at Geisenkirchen, the French consider that the police are inclined to use their arms too freely, especially when they get into disputes with French soldiers.

Headquarters here has on record twelve incidents where the police used firearms against the military.

It is also charged that in another

BLOOD ANALYSIS IN BURNS MURDER TRIAL

Painesville, O., Feb. 15.—Startling disclosures were promised by County Prosecutor Ostrander at the trial of Henry D. Burns of Cleveland, charged with the first degree murder of his wife. The disclosures, the prosecutor said, are developments of an analysis by Cleveland chemists of bloodstains on various articles to be introduced as evidence in the trial. Burns was arrested in Cleveland on October 28, ten hours after his wife's body was found in a shallow grave in a wood near Mentor.

CRUDE OIL PRICE JUMPS 25C. A BARREL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 15 (By International News Service).—All grades of Eastern crude oil except Corning were advanced 25 cents a barrel at the wells today by Standard Oil through its buyers. New prices are: New York Transit and Bradford District, $4.25; National Transit, Southwest Pipe Line, Eureka Pipe Line and Buckeye Pipe Line, $4; Cabell, $2.76; Somerset heavy, $3.55, and Somerset light, $2.80.

COL. LITTAUER LOSES IN LOVE BATTLE

Paris, Feb. 15 (By International News Service).—Colonel William A. Littauer, New York millionaire, who recently brought suit to prevent the marriage of his eighteen-year-old daughter, Catherine, to William H. Doeller of Columbus, O., has relented and today all was serene in the Littauer household.

Announcement was made that a reconciliation had been effected and that the marriage would take place with the blessing of the bride's father.

THOUSANDS BANKED BY "BOOKIE"

Finn, Accused at the Trial of Downey, Had Large Account at Federal Trust

Deposits of thousands of dollars in the Exchange Trust Company to an account in the name of Robert L. Finn figured in evidence today when the trial of Finn and Humphrey Lane was resumed before Judge Bishop in Superior Court.

Finn and Lane, alleged former bookmakers are on trial on charges of fleecing $127,000 from twenty-year old Paul F. Downey when he was loan and discount clerk for the Federal Trust Company, last year.

They are also charged with theft of that sum from the Federal Trust.

Downey, who has pleaded guilty to theft of the $127,000 from the Federal Trust, was scheduled to take the stand as State witness later in the day and tell his own story of gambling away the bank funds by betting on horse races.

RAN UP TO $30,000.

Vice-President Robert E. Fay of the Exchange Trust testified today to Robert L. Finn account at his bank which ran from small deposits last April up to $30,00 by August.

Vice-President Fay identified a record of deposits made at the Boylston street branch of the Exchange Trust to the account of "Robert L. Finn, Harry Harris, attorney, No. 115 Broadway, Boston."

These deposits began April 27, 1922, and continued to September 28, 1922. The record was on two sheets of the bank ledger.

Assistant District Attorney Maurice Caro called the jury's attention to the increasing balances. Up to June the balances were small. In June the balances increased to $1,300; then to $3,000. Increasing July bal-

American's Expose on Coal Confirmed

The Boston American's story of New England's great coal scandal was officially confirmed today by witnesses before the Interstate Comerce Commission in New York city.

W. H. Towne, transportation superintendent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, testifying before the commission, admitted there is an abnormal number of cars detained at gateway points on the road.

He specified 442 cars in the yards at Mechaniesville, N. Y., on February 12, and 20 cars at Rotterdam on the same day.

The Boston American in its expose of the coal scandal printed pictures of huge trains of coal cars held up at those gateways.

Today even C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who, previously has declined to acknowledge the existence of a coal emergency, told the Interstate Commerce Commission that there has been a great increase in the number of coal cars detained at various gateways.

The Boston American has shown pictures of New Haven coal trains held at various points.

Mr. Towne also gave the commission figures showing a marked decrease in tonnage of coal carried in 1922 compared with 1921. He said 1,630 cars were handled the first twelve days of Feb. 1923, compared with 1,864 cars that period in 1922, which was during the rail strike.

Counsel for the New York Central railroad declared the fuel allotment to the Boston & Albany railroad supplied by the New York Central had been increased to alleviate the fuel famine, but that it might be necessary to place an embargo on other freight as the low temperature and heavy grades on that road had already taxed its facilities to the utmost.

Figures on anthracite shipments to and from Canada, furnished by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, were read by Commissioner Campbell. They were:

Year	Exported	Imported
1915	4,345,976 tons	66 tons
1919	4,344,564 tons	72,305 tons
1920	4,425,966 tons	27,547 tons
1921	4,035,014 tons	5,941 tons

Commissioner Campbell read into the record a telegram from A. P. Lane, fuel administrator of Maine, which said the Shawagcoke Coal Company, distributors from the Hudson Coal Company, also refused to give its orders, and that the Delawars & Hudson Railroad refused to furnish its car figures.

BURGLAR RUNS FROM SCREAMS

Negro Enters Three Malden Houses, but Shrieks of Inmates Scare Him Off

The most persistent burglar in the world had a tough morning of it at Malden today.

He began operations quite early, at two o'clock in the morning, by breaking a parlor window at the home of J. B. Walsh at No. 20 Berkeley street. The sound awakened Walsh, who got out of bed and switched on the lights. He heard the burglar as he ran away. Walsh returned to bed after a while, after making a report of the affair to the police.

Half an hour later the same man climbed open a front window at the home of Frank A. Williams, No. 16 Berkeley street. Mrs. Williams heard him creeping about in the house, and switched on the hall lights, getting a glimpse of a husky negro dressed in a shabby suit, an army overcoat and a cap.

She screamed. The scream awoke Miss Anna Swett, a boarder. Anna screamed. Her outcry awoke her sister Lizzie, who slept with her. Lizzie screamed. Lizzie's yell aroused Annie Peterson, another boarder who slept on a cot in the

It was indicated that the appointment of a successor to Colonel Forbes might not be made immediately, and that he might resume his duties temporarily after his return from Europe, where he recently went on a vacation.

BREAKS AIR RECORD; 234 MILES AN HOUR

Paris, Feb. 15 (By International News Service).—M. Sadi-Lecointe, famous French aviator, today set a new airplane speed record by flying 377 kilometers an hour in a 300 horse-power Nieuport machine. This breaks the world record of 356 kilometres an hour made by the American aviator Mitchell. Reduced to English miles, 377 kilometers would be about 234 miles.

AID SPEEDS TO SHIP OFF CAPE MAY

Crew of Foundering Freighter Standing by Pumps on Gale-Lashed Vessel

Forty-five men are fighting for life today aboard the Italian freight steamship Moncenisio, midway between the Azores and Bermuda, while the steamship Carplaka, last reported as seventy-seven miles distant, is rushing to the rescue.

The Moncenisio is sinking. Water is pouring into her grain filled hold twice as fast as the dog tired sailors can pump it out.

RADIO CALLS HELP.

The wireless operator is sending S. O. S. calls, giving the location of the vessel as 36.35 north latitude and 62.22 west longitude, which is roughly 510 miles east from Cape Henry, Va.

The Moncenisio left Galveston on February 3 loaded to the hatches with Middle Western grain for Naples and struck rough going after losing sight of land. The storms increased and finally came the climax during the night.

The Coast Guard cutter Manning has also gone to the freighter's aid. She was reported as more than a BIG AMOUNTS.

Downey confessed to President Mullowney of the Federal Trust, according to Mullowney's testimony, that he began gambling on the horse races in July.

Attorney Carr then introduced a number of checks deposited in the Finn account in the Exchange Trust Company ranging from small amounts up to as high as $18,300 and $20,370.

A deposit slip, offered in evidence, showed one deposit of $1,550. Vice-President Fay testified this deposit consisted of a check on the Federal Trust Company for $1,500 and a check on the United States Trust Company for $50.

President Mullowney of the Federal Trust had testified that Downey told him he paid Finn with Federal Trust Co. checks in covering his racing bets.

VICTIM OF GAS NEAR DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carrier of No. 535 Summer street, Lynn. She was found unconscious on the parlor couch by her foster parents.

In the room were two pets, a black cocker spaniel and a white Pomeranian. The spaniel was greatly distressed. The Pom, however, was only mildly affected.

VALENTINES AT BEDSIDE.

On a table beside Mary's hospital cot today were several valentines that awaited her at the Breed Grammar School yesterday.

When Mrs. Carrier went to the school today to inform the teacher Mary was ill she learned to her surprise the child had not been there the day before. Why she did not go is a mystery, as her foster-parents understood, when they left the house, after breakfast yesterday to go to their respective places of work, that Mary was going to school as usual.

"I am going to distribute valentines at school today," Mary had said to Mrs. Carrier the last thing before the elders left.

The Carriers occupy a first floor apartment in a six-family house heated by furnaces. Mrs. Carrier said they had only a little coal, saved for the kitchen range; hence the gas heater in the parlor.

OVERCOME AT STUDY?

It may have been Mary went into the parlor before time to go to school, lighted the gas heater, started to study a little and was quickly overcome by the fumes.

Mr. Carrier arrived at 4:30 and received no response to the bell. His wife arrived a few minutes later. She suggested he look in the parlor window. He saw the girl unconscious on the couch and forced up the window.

Dr. O. A. Swain, who tried to revive Mary, said she was overcome by carbon monoxide gas formed by imperfect combustion of the heater after the oxygen had been burned out of the parlor air.

Dr. Swain sent Mary to Lynn Hospital where a pulmotor failed to revive her. Early today the doctors began administration of oxygen.

Woman Has Been Asleep 137 Hours

Springfield, Feb. 15. — Mrs. Amelia Swirk of No. 28 South street today had been asleep 137 hours.

She has been suffering from sleeping sickness since Friday afternoon, according to Dr. L. E. Dionne.

She opened her eyes for a moment Monday morning, but soon lapsed into complete sleep again.

Dr. Dionne reports her condition similar to eight cases recently reported in Worcester.

GIRL BOUND TO STRETCHER IN BACK BAY RAID

Miss Muriel Bateaux, twenty-four-year-old girl, who was arrested by Back Bay police following a "wild party" in a Beacon street apartment house, was carried from the house to a patrol wagon bound to a stretcher.

Neighbors saw the bound form carried out by the raiders, her screams and cries awakening the neighborhood.

The arrest of the girl, according to neighbors, is the culmination of several drinking "bouts" in the apartment.

ORDERED TO GET OUT.

And, as a result of the "party" orders have been issued by the owner of the apartment house for the immediate removal of the tenants involved.

Six months ago the apartment was rented by a woman and her daughter. The daughter is known to the neighbors as "Peggy" and she is considered exceptionally attractive.

Then, according to the landlady and the tenants, midnight soirees began.

The other tenants of the house protested.

PHONED FOR POLICE.

The limit was reached when Muriel started to celebrate. Phone calls to Station 16 brought the police. And the arrival of the police sent Muriel into louder demonstrations.

She was taken to Station 16. From there she was removed to the City Hospital. While John Tallen, an attendant, was questioning her Muriel clawed and scratched him so that he had to be treated by a doctor.

WOMEN SCARE OFF BURGLAR

same room. The Peterson girl shrieked.

The burglar by this time was running around the place like a rabbit. The four screaming women were too much for him. He clambered out of the window and was out of sight by the time the man of the house awoke and demanded to know what all the fuss was.

The two efforts at burglary apparently did not phase the prowler, for half an hour later he had forced the rear window at the home of Benjamin Damofsky at No. 443 Eastern avenue.

How was he to know that this window led to a bedroom? How was he to know that right alongside of the window slumbered Eva and Charlotte Damofsky? How was he to know that as he let himself into the room his foot, which went in first, would land rudely upon the face of Eva.

The shriek that Eva let loose was a super-scream. It made the screams of the Swett girls and the Peterson girl and Mrs. Williams sound like sighs. The burglar-ous foot went back into the cold. By the time lights went up there was no sign of the marauder. Eva had a black eye.

SACO-LOWELL TO GRANT WAGE INCREASE

More than 4,000 employes of the Saco-Lowell shops, manufacturers of textile machinery at Newton Upper Falls, Lowell, and Biddeford Me., were notified today of an increase in wages effective February 26. The increase is voluntary on the part of the company.

O. E. Nutter, agent at the Newton Upper Falls plant on Oak street, today said that 700 employes at his plant would benefit, about 2,000 at the Lowell shops, and 1,400 at the Biddeford, Me., plant.

Increase in orders, bright business prospects and labor scarcity are the reasons given for increase.

Mr. Nutter said the advance in pay would be along the sliding scale line, depending upon the different grades of work.

The Saco-Lowell concern is one of the oldest textile machinery concerns in the country, having been established ninety years. Orders are now in the hands of agents at the Newton and Lowell plants for machinery to be shipped all over the world, Mr. Nutter said today.

GUY MURCHIE HEADS ARMY AND NAVY CLUB

Major Guy Murchie, former United States marshal, was elected president of the Army and Navy Club at their annual meeting at their headquarters No. 10 Park square. The newly-elected vice-presidents are Mrs. Harry Liebmann, Alfred L. Aiken, Felix Vorenberg, Mrs. George R. Fearing and Barrett Wendell. The other officers elected were Allan Forbes, treasurer; William H. Mayo, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Ex. Coe, clerk and executive secretary.

WARNS PINCHOT OF STATE PRISON REVOLT

Washington, Feb. 15.—(By International News Service.)—Warning that unless relief is forthcoming there will be another serious revolt of convicts in the Western Pennsylvania penitentiary at Pittsburgh, was sent to Governor Pinchot today by E. E. Dudding, president of the Prisoners' Relief Society, who declared he has information of a conspiracy of convicts to rebel against alleged bad treatment they receive from guards.

Coal Shipped by Express, $45 a Ton

The coal shortage plus the cold wave have created an unprecedented condition.

From Pottsville, Pa., two tons of anthracite were shipped today by express. It is the first time on record that coal has been shipped in this way. The buyer paid $45 a ton—a record price.

Orders for coal have been sent to some of the Pennsylvania mines with instructions to ship as any price.

BRITAIN SEEKS STILL BETTER DEBT TERMS

London, Feb. 15 (By International News Service).—Great Britain will continue to seek more advantageous terms for paying the British war debt to the United States, Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin announced in the House of Commons today. Everything, now, he said, depends upon Britain's arrangements for redemption.

Senator Reed Blocks Vote on Debt Plan

Washington, Feb. 15.—Objection by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, blocked efforts today of Senate Republican leaders to arrange for a vote tomorrow on the British debt funding bill.

HOLD SALESMAN AND GIRL ON WIFE'S PLEA

Heaven has no rage like love to hatred turned,
Nor hell a fury like a woman scorned.

So wrote William Congreve in his famous play "The Way of the World," and today Grover C. Nickerson, debonair lumber salesman, whispered the quotation to his affinity as he gazed across Roxbury courtroom at his Nemesis, his comely wife, Mabel.

Grover's "wonder heart," pretty Ella C. Seander of North Milton street, Malden, smiled and appeared not the least bit nonplussed by the fact she was the cynosure of the eyes of the court throng when the clerk boomed out their names and read off a statutory charge.

From the rear of the court room came a policeman who stood by the side of Mrs. Nickerson, and told Judge Ahern how the wife had called at Station 16, Back Bay, with a story of her husband's perfidy and how he had gone to No. 111 Queensberry street and there found Grover and Mabel.

The patrolman also found a five-year-old child who was left with other tenants until other arrangements could be made by the police. Just whose youngster this is was not made clear in the court, but it is not the daughter of Mrs. Nickerson.

After the wife had narrated her trials to Judge Ahern and had informed him that this was not the first time she had found it necessary to invoke the aid of the law, the court continued the case until February 28, in order that court officials might consult with police inspectors relative to certain affairs of the past.

BOFIN WEDS WHILE FREE STATE HUNTS

Belfast, Feb. 15 (By the Associated Press).—The Irish Irregular leader Bofin, against whom the Free State is engaged in an extensive campaign in the Arigna Mountains of County Cavan, was married on Monday in the village church at Leitrim, according to a report from Belturbet today. The sweeping of the hills where the insurgent leader and his followers have taken refuge was being vigorously pressed. Some of the best military brains among the Free State forces are behind the big sweep, it was declared.

Anything for Sale? Nervous Men, Beware Day by Day, Worse Col. Hershman and Co.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

HAVE you anything for sale, really good? offer it to Henry Ford. Yesterday he bought a glass plant in Pittsburgh, one of the biggest in the world, turning out 7,000,000 square feet of plate glass a year. That isn't enough to make Ford's wind shields. Modern business is big business.

THE STOCK MARKET had an exciting day. First came news that the Turks had sunk a French warship. Not true, of course, but true enough to give a bad headache to those that were "long."

There are many "long" and "short" ones these days. Brokers' loans are said to amount to two thousand million dollars, a new record for all time. Many nervous little men are represented in those two thousand millions. Later the nervous, feverish little ones will be wiped out. A few cold, not nervous, will be rich. If you stay OUT you'll be safe.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION as regards Germany, France and England is a little worse each day. Bonar Law bluntly tells the House that the French have blundered. His hope of helping European construction side by side with France grows dim. Severest critics of French policy in this country are mild compared with English critics.

FRENCH MONEY SUFFERS, dropping eleven points yesterday. Belgian francs also dropped. By a queer freak German marks rise, having nearly doubled in value within a week. Only a very smart man understands money.

PUBLISHERS of Pittsburgh led by the very able Colonel Hershman, have bought and killed the Dispatch and Leader, thus reducing the evening field to three and the morning field to two newspapers.

That's plenty, but this writer remembers days when the Pittsburgh Dispatch, a great paper, used to print his articles sent to the New York Sun from London, when many great editors of today were not born.

It's sad to see such deaths, and by the way, where was Frank Munsey? His is the original patent on killing newspapers. You say to him as Henry IV. said to the bravest man in France:

"Hang yourself, Crillon; you were not there."

WE ARE WELL OUT of all Europe's complications here, and if we have as much brains as one of Tutankhamen's mummy deer, we'll stay out.

In the Catskills, New York city has just finished the longest tunnel in the world, burrowing under a mountain, capturing a little river running west, making it run east to New York, where six million people will use a little and waste most of it.

That's better than fighting or stealing the money of other nations.

GAMBLERS IN SUGAR are enjoying a fine, exciting time, thanks to the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Hoover, who knows what it means to set the food gamblers gambling, will want to find out and tell the people why his representative started the sugar scare, talking about a scarcity that may, but probably won't, come next year. That put up the price of sugar right away.

It is an excellent thing for the overcapitalized, cruelly formed and hard-hit sugar companies of war time, and a good thing for gamblers. But not so good for little people with little sugar bowls.

WHEN MUSSOLINI SEIZED POWER in Italy, questions arose as to his religious beliefs and inclinations; a former violent Socialist leader, it was thought he might be "anticlerical," hostile to the Vatican.

That idea, however, appears to have been mistaken. When the Mexican government expelled the representative of the Pope for participating in open-air religious celebration, the Italian minister in Mexico, representing Mussolini, protested vigorously, though the Pope's representative took the matter very quietly. Now, upon Mussolini's order, the Fascisti announce that no member of Free Masonry can belong to the Fascisti organization.

Then ask your subject to raise the head high and to shut his eyes, and place your right fist on the back of his neck, and your left hand on his forehead, and say to him: "Now think: I am falling backwards, I am falling backwards, etc., etc. . . ." and, indeed, "You are falling backwards. You...ssss...fall...ing...back...wards, etc." At the same time slide the left hand lightly backwards to the left temple, above the ear, and remove very slowly but with a continuous movement the right fist.

The subject is immediately felt to make a slight movement backwards, and either to stop himself from falling or else to fall completely. In the first case, tell him that he has resisted, and that he did not think just that he was falling, but that he might hurt himself if he did fall. That is true, for if he had not thought the latter, he would have fallen like a block. Repeat the experiment using a tone of command as if you would force the subject to obey you. Go on with it until it is completely successful or very nearly so. The operator should stand a little behind the subject, the left leg forward and the right leg well behind him, so as not to be knocked over by the subject when he falls. Neglect of this precaution might result in a double fall if the person is heavy.

Third Experiment—Place the subject facing you, the body still stiff, the ankles flexible, and the feet joined and parallel. Put your two hands on his temples without any pressure, look fixedly, without moving the eyelids, at the root of his nose, and tell him to think: "I am falling torward, I am falling forward . . ." and repeat to him, stressing the syllables, "You are fall...ing for ...ward. You are fall...ing for...ward..." without ceasing to look fixedly at him.

Fourth Experiment—Ask the subject to clasp his hands as tight as possible, that is to say, until the fingers tremble slightly, look at him in the same way as in the preceding experiment and keep your hands on his as though to squeeze them together still more tightly. Tell him to think that he cannot unclasp his fingers, that you are going to count three, and that when you say "three" he is to try to separate his hands while thinking all the time: "I cannot do it, I cannot do it . . ." and he will find it impossible. Then count very slowly, "one, two, three," and add immediately, detaching the syllables: "You...can...not...do it...You can ...not do...it..."

Battleship Maine Sunk at Havana 25 Years Ago

February 15, 1898, just twenty-five years ago today, the U. S. battleship Maine was sunk in Havana Harbor. The war with Spain followed and as a result the United States became a world power. Cuba was freed and Porto Rico and the Philippines came to this country.

February 15, 1923, and the last of the United States troops have just returned after another foreign war. The map of Europe has been changed with our aid. And the United States is left not only as a world power, but also as the dominant figure in unchallenged strength.

GIRL FACES AUTO THEFT CHARGE TODAY

While Timothy Murphy, Cambridge special police officer, alternately berated and commended himself for sticking to his creed that "right is right," and causing the arrest of his seventeen-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Murphy, did a little praying on her own part as she prepared to face Judge Stone today in answer to a charge of larceny of an auto.

Elizabeth Murphy

For a week the girl has languished in the East Cambridge jail awaiting trial on the charge of aiding William McDonald, twenty-one-year-old alleged bandit, in the theft of an auto and the robbery of a Lancaster baker.

SUGGESTS BATH FOR BOSTON COMMUTERS

Speaking of efficiency and time-saving.

How about the New Haven Railroad installing bath facilities so persons may take a bath while waiting for their trains.

They are doing that in Berlin now. Cables today said that a bathhouse has been installed in Berlin's largest railway station. Officials figure that, by using speed and not fussing too much, a passenger may bathe in fifteen or twenty minutes and thus employ to advantage the time usually wasted in train-waiting.

A commuter today suggested the New Haven install a big bathhouse in the South Station. There will be plenty of time, commuters say, for baths.

If a Berliner can bathe in 15 minutes, then New Haven passengers will have time enough, commuters aver, to take two baths.

Some days, when engines can't make steam and delays are longer than usual, the waiting passenger might bathe and then—

Get a shave and hair-cut.

Be measured for a new suit.

Telephone his coal dealer again.

Lie down and snatch a couple of cat-naps.

Gallop around the concourse for a constitutional.

Read a book or two.

And then some.

BEDFORD TRAIN IS STALLED IN DRIFT

Many persons were delayed in getting into Boston from Bedford, and others had to walk more than a mile through snow-drifts, when the 6:25 train from Boston for the Reformatory station stuck in a drift today about a mile from the Reformatory. A snowplow rescued the train and brought it back into the main line at Bedford, where it returned to Boston two and a half hours late.

15 MORE SWINDLE ARRESTS

Police Have Warrants for That Number in Inter-City Trust Land Stock Venture

Boston police inspectors today are looking for fifteen or more men on warrants charging complicity in the alleged $1,500,000 land stock swindle of the Inter City Trust Company.

S. Leland Montague, of No. 6 Gracewood Park, Cambridge, ex-trustee of the trust, arrested on an indictment charging conspiracy and larceny, has so far failed to obtain bail fixed at $25,000.

Percy A. Guthrie

George Stanford, of Boston, former salesman and executive secretary, arrested on similar charges, was bailed immediately after his arrest. He is now said to be working with a group of shareholders organized for protection. He was one of the organizers of the Inter City Trust Shareholders' Protective Association of which Howard L. Baker of Kingston is chairman.

Montague and Stanford, it is understood, contend all the trouble came with the arrival of the "flying squad" of salesmen imported under contract with the Cragar system in New York.

SWEETSER EXPLAINS.

Frank E. Sweetser, trustee of the Inter City Trust Company, today outlined the developments following his appointment. He denied he had ever authorized the sale of a single share of stock, and declared Attorney Percy A. Guthrie, who has filed suits against the concern for three clients, once sought the position as its attorney.

"I will admit that there has been rotten mismanagement of the Trust Company," said Sweetser. "I went into it on October 10, 1922. That very day I attended a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission and I learned something of the true conditions.

"I gave the commission my word of honor that I would not sell or allow to be sold a single share of stock. And I haven't.

"Two days before Thanksgiving, six weeks after I became a trustee, I petitioned for a receiver."

23 PER CENT. COMMISSION.

Revelations today in the investigation of the tangle which swallowed the life savings of scores of men and women, include the charges that half the $1,500,000 collected was expended for commissions, salaries and the lavish entertainment of officers and sales force.

The big corps of "rapid fire" salesmen imported received one-quarter of the money they secured in stock sales as commissions. Another 5 per cent. went to the office directors.

Members of the Cragar system, which contracted to sell stock, are under indictment in New York, where an investigation is also going on.

BORROWED FROM WOMEN.

S. Leyland Montague, the promoter, got his start from a woman.

Mrs. Alice M. Bartlett, of No. 9 Regent street North Cambridge, declares she lent him $2,000 when he first launched his scheme.

"He paid me back," she said, "but induced me to invest my money, $2,000, in his stock. But I became suspicious and got most of the money back."

AC CUSES N. H. ROAD OFFICIALS

Leader of Shopmen Charges Inefficiency and Peril to Life and Property

Charges of inefficiency, lack of proper precautions to safeguard property and direct violation of the Transportation Act were made today by Robert Henderson, secretary of the New Haven System Federation of Shopmen's organizations against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Henderson was the first person to testify at the special hearing before the Public Utilities Board in the State House on an order of the Legislature to investigate faulty service of various Massachusetts railroads. This is the second hearing, the first having been devoted to a consideration of the claims of the railroad officials. They were unanimous in blaming their troubles on the recent strike of shopmen, weather conditions and unusually heavy snowfalls.

BOSTON AMERICAN EXPOSE.

The hearings were started on an order presented by Representative Andrew P. Doyle, following an exposé of disgraceful service on the New Haven road in the Boston American.

Henderson said the present congestion is due directly to the railroads.

He presented a list of freight train movements into and out of the New Haven's Boston yards, which showed they were from one to nine days late in arriving and leaving.

One of the cases cited was that of a freight train due January 6 which arrived on January 15. Another which arrived the same day was due January 12. And scores of other freight trains, Henderson charged, were not being moved at all because of lack of motive power.

GIVES STRIKE FACTS.

He denied the statement made by President Pearson of New Haven at the first hearing, that there was an unusual degree of inefficiency shown among the shopmen working on the road, because of the day pay system in effect before the strike. Henderson said that during the war the government inspected the road and a report was made which stated that the day pay system in vogue on the New Haven showed results superior to the piecework system used on other railroads.

As for the strike, Henderson said, "The New Haven road wanted that strike. They wanted to starve the shopmen into submission at their own terms. At a time when the public was suffering greatly from its lack of service, we pleaded with them time and again for conferences to settle the strike, and they turned us down each time.

"At a time when they were being criticised on all sides for their bad service, they were laying off men in the shops, and they're still laying them off."

CHARGES LAW VIOLATED.

Henderson showed figures which indicated that between November 15, 1920 and March 3, 1921, a total of 816 men were laid off at the Readville shops of the New Haven.

He said that most of the fires caused along railroad rights of way were due to sparks from locomotives and live ashes dropping from the locomotive ash boxes. Realizing this, he said, the Transportation Act drawn up by the Labor Board had provided that all locomotive boilers and ash boxes be inspected at regular intervals by experienced boiler-makers, in order to minimize the fire danger on rights of way.

The New Haven raid, he said, in order to save money, put inexperienced helpers on the job of inspection of the boilers and ash boxes, thus directly violating the Transportation Act. As a result, he testified, there were more fires on the New Haven right of way than on any other New England road.

BREWSTER AND WIFE AGREE ON ALIMONY

CORLISS PALMER

That was what Corliss Palmer, beautiful motion picture star, said when her name was brought into the separation suit of Mrs. Eleanor V. V. Brewster, second wife of Eugene V. Brewster, wealthy publisher of film magazines.

She repeated it today when informed an agreement of alimony had been reached between Brewster and his wife, who is suing him for separation. An understanding has been reached, it was said at the office of Mrs. Brewster's attorney, which requires only the signatures of the litigants. The terms are said to be satisfactory to Mrs. Brewster.

After Miss Palmer had been named by Mrs. Brewster as corespondent, she made no effort to hide her affection for the publisher.

"Bruce and I suit each other," Corliss said. "We are true mates. He is my ideal, and I am his. There is the sort of an attraction between us that binds a man to a woman so he can't get away from her.

"He is most unhappy when we are apart. As far as the difference in our age, that doesn't matter. If I had my choice of a man of my own age and Bruce, and loved them both, I would choose Bruce.

"And his previous marriages do not matter. A man can have twelve wives in a row, and eleven of them may be failures, and the twelfth may just suit him."

The golden-haired Georgia peach came to New York and was ushered into fame by winning a beauty contest in one of Brewster's magazines. It is an ironic fact that the present Mrs. Brewster is the one who induced her husband to award the golden apple of beauty to Corliss.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE, VANISHES AND DIES

Harry B. Weinstein, who formerly lived at No. 160 Chambers street, West End, shot himself through the head about three months ago. Three weeks ago he failed to return home and his wife and children feared that he had taken his life and began to mourn. Today came word from New York that he had died in that city yesterday. Wheiher death was due to natural causes or his own hand is not known.

LOCATED IN CHICAGO STREET

Missing Quincy Man, Wandering, Dazed, Rescued by Friend

Through the intuition of his young bride, Ralph B. Parker, a socially prominent young citizen of Quincy, who disappeared on February 8 while suffering from a severe attack of influenza, has been found wandering the streets of Chicago.

Police and newspaper efforts to locate the missing man failed, but the "immortal sixth sense of the woman" came to the rescue and young Parker was located.

Mrs. Parker, who was married less than six months ago, was completely discouraged by the failures of relatives, friends, police and others. Suddenly, she said, something told her that her husband was in Chicago.

There was no particular reason, she said, why she should think he was in the city half way across the continent than anywhere else. Searchers scoffed at the idea but the bride persisted. She racked her memory to think of someone Parker knew in Chicago. Finally she remembered he had a friend there.

Mrs. Parker telegraphed the Chicago friend. He replied that he had not seen Parker, but would look for him. A few days later the friend came upon Parker on the street. The Chicagoan brought Parker to his home and telegraphed Quincy. Today Mrs. Parker, her mother, Mrs. Charles Sampson, and her father-in-law, John W. Parker, of Boston and Marshfield, are en route to Chicago.

British Liberals Unite for League Mediation

London, Feb. 15 (By the Associated Press).—The Aquithian and Lloyd George Liberals urge that the League of Nations appoint a commission, on which the United States would be asked to have a representative, to study Germany's capacity to meet her reparation obligations.

This proposal is to come before the House of Commons next Monday in the form of a joint amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. The amendment, which has been agreed upon by both Liberal groups, requests the government to seek the assistance of the league in the present European situation, and advocates that the proposed commission not only investigate Germany's capacity to pay, but also consider how the payments may best be made.

Bourgeois to Devote His Life to League

Paris, Feb. 15. (By the Associated Press).—Leon Bourgeois, re-elected president of the Senate at the reopening of that body last month, has written his letter of resignation, which will be read within a day or two.

M. Bourgeois says he is determined to devote the remainder of his life to the League of Nations, which he had an important part in creating.

Britain to Save Two Billions on Her Debt

New York, Feb. 15.—The steady rise in sterling has saved Great Britain about $2,000,000,000. With the pound quoted in the dollar market at $4.67 today, England has profited by the difference accruing in value since her money was down to $3.17 in 1920, when it was at its low. Consequently, Great Britain's debt to the United States is reducible by that much. The saving in pounds sterling is 432,500,000.

Allies Propose New Parleys With Turks

Constantinople, Feb. 15.—Allied officials are said to have informed the Turks they are willing to enter into fresh negotiations for warships to remain in Smyrna harbor, but in reduced numbers. Relations between the allied naval commanders and the Turkish commander at Smyrna are strained, but communications are taking place between them.

French Publisher Faces Treason Trial

Paris, Feb. 15.—The return of Ernest Judet, former owner of the newspaper L'Eclair, to face charges of communicating with the enemy during the war, has caused a stir. He is credited with possessing a number of secret documents.

Judet's lawyer says he will subpoena 100 witnesses, including Georges Clemenceau and other celebrities for the trial, to be held in May.

CLAY BOY'S BURNS TO SHORTAGE OF COAL

Springfield, Feb. 15.—The coal shortage is directly responsible for the plight of seven-year-old Robert Hanscom, who is in a critical condition at the Wesson Memorial Hospital, his body covered with burns. The Hanscoms live at No. 138 Pendleton avenue, has been without coal for some time. Meagre heat was supplied by a gas stove. When Robert got up this morning the room was icy cold. He ran over to the gas stove, getting on close an ignible. In a moment his nightgown was ablaze. The boy's screams awakened his father, Homer F. Hanscom, who ran into the room and rolled the boy into a blanket.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and regulating the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.

MAY SAVE MILLIONS BY NEW LIGHT PLAN

Washington, Feb. 15.—A saving of millions of dollars yearly would be effected by the adoption of a recommendation submitted to Postmaster-General Work today providing for a standard system of lighting in postoffices throughout the country. Tests have developed a standard system which increased the efficiency of postal workers 4.4 per cent. in two offices where a net saving of $108,000 was effected.

GAS KILLS THREE IN ONE FAMILY

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 16 (By International News Service).—Coroner Fitzgerald today was investigating the deaths from gas of Mrs. Mary Fletcher, 42 years old, her son William, 20, and a grandchild, James, 13, whose bodies were found in their beds when Alexander Fletcher, husband of the dead woman, returned from work. Fletcher told police that he prepared his own breakfast and left the family sleeping when he went to work.

BOLTON FREED IN SHOOTING OF GUARDS

Concord, N. H., Feb. 15.—County officials pronounced John W. Bolton, Jr., sane and justified his shooting of two guards who attempted to take him from his home at Canterbury back to the State Hospital, where he had been a patient on complaint of his wife. Bolton was released from his voluntary confinement in the county jail and returned home. George Nadeau, one of the attendants, is still in a serious condition. Addy Smith, the other attendant, recovered.

HOW TO PUT A "KICK" IN IT

—A tip for "wets" and "drys!"

We are all liable to feel "out of sorts" at times—need something with a "kick" in it to clear the brain, brighten the eye, put "pep" in the system.

Best way to do this is to take—with, or without, a "chaser"—that harmless yet thoroughly efficient family medicine, Beecham's Pills.

"Two for adults and one for children" is the phrase of health that has meant good digestion and a clear system to countless healthy, happy people the world over for the past 80 years.

BAG DEALERS REAPING HARVEST BY FLEECING COAL CONSUMERS

GET $1.20 PER 100 POUNDS FOR MIXED SLATE AND ROCK

The coal "gyppers"—the bag men—are reaping harvest in Boston.

Mixtures sold for coal in 100-pound bags containing large percentages of slate, snow, ice and other fireproof material, and bringing the "gyppers" as high as $1.30 a bag, are being unloaded on a suffering populace.

AND, ACCORDING TO STATE OFFICIALS, THERE IS NO LAW UNDER WHICH THEY CAN BE PUNISHED.

Coal, which is absorbent, is soaked with water; snow and hunks of ice which fall on the top of the coal about to be bagged is cheerfully mixed into the bags and the result added to the very low quality of the actual coal leaves the purchaser with less than half a bagful of combustible material.

Among the flood of complaints which have poured into the Boston American about the "gyppers" was one from Jamaica Plain. In this a man told of buying bagged "coal" from the Lamarche Coal Company and finding it mostly rock and slate.

The American sent a reporter to that district and purchased a bag of the same material. The bag was then sent to the State House to be analyzed. As the bag was about to be removed from a truck at the State House there was a loud report and the contents of the bag scattered about the reporter.

Out of the original twenty-five pounds of "coal" in the bag there were only ten pounds left. The explosion had wiped out the rest. What was in this "coal" to cause it to explode will be discovered in the analysis. It could hardly be considered safe material to get into a kitchen range.

Attention is also called to the fact that when "statistics" regarding the price of coal at the mines are mentioned they refer to a "long" ton of 2,240 pounds, but when the price of a ton of coal at retail is given in Boston it refers to 2,000 pounds or what is called a "short ton."

It is pointed out that in figuring the profits of the coal dealers the odd 240 pounds difference between what the dealer sells for a ton of coal and what he buys for a ton is overlooked. Who gets the profit on it?

NEW HAVEN DENIAL REFUTED.

Shortly after publication of the Boston American story, which told of cars held on sidings at Readville and on the tracks of the Midland Division between the Greenwood avenue bridge and the Readville station, a New Haven official directed a letter to James J. Phelan, State Fuel Administrator, admitting that cars had been sidetracked at those points, but claiming that those cars did not contain coal.

Vice-President A. P. Russell was the official, and he stated that the cars referred to contained nothing but ashes. He denied that coal cars had been sidetracked at those points.

Those cars, as a matter of fact, contained coal—and mostly all hard coal. The American knows it, Mr. Phelan should know it, and Mr. Russell probably knows it.

Moreover, those were not the only coal cars that had been left on rail sidings. It had been going on all Winter, at times when the city's coal in Massachusetts went up on all sides.

CARS DISAPPEAR.

It is a striking coincidence that all the cars referred to d appeared from the tracks immediately following publication of the st.ry in the American, with publication of photographs of the cars.

Police Sergeant Charles B. Ryan of Station B, Hyde Park, has a route which takes in the section where the icicle-covered coal cars were stalled.

He said today:

"For the past two or three weeks I have seen as many as fifteen or twenty regular coal cars, all loaded with coal, NOT ASHES, lying on the tracks of the Midland Division of the New Haven Road, between the Greenwood avenue bridge and the Readville depot of the road. I am positive that they were loaded with coal, for I know the difference between coal and ashes. I could not very well tell the grade. It appeared like egg and a portion like soft coal. These cars were in plain sight and everyone noticed them and others remarked about it.

"They were moved away on Friday last. They were moved the next day after the pictures appeared in the paper. I also saw five carloads almost off the Sturtevant Company plant in Readville. I was surprised to see the large number of cars lying idle loaded with coal, when the Roxbury Coal Company and Darling in Hyde Park have been unable to get their shipments for the people hereabouts."

Special Officer Frank H. Shepherd of the same station not only corroborated the sergeant, but also added:

"If you wish to see more coal cars filled with coal lying idle, go over to the 'Muskrat' section near the Readville racetrack course on the spur tracks there and you will find more cars which have been there for a long time and which appear never to be moved to their destination."

Patrolman George A. Chalmers also confirmed the Boston American expose.

SAW FORTY CARS.

Benjamin Tripp, yard man of the Stafford Loom Works, said:

"For the past three or four weeks up to last week, there were between thirty and forty coal cars, containing hard coal, lying off the spur tracks from the Greenwood avenue bridge. Up to a week ago there must have been at least 2,500 tons of good hard coal lying idle there. I know the difference between coal and ashes, and this was all coal. All of them have been moved after the stories and pictures appeared in the Boston American."

IDLE CARS ALL WINTER.

Harold McCoy, clerk in the American Express office at the Readville station, said:

"There has been coal lying around in cars all Winter long on the siding of the Midland division just before reaching the Readville station. Only last week I noticed over and over again about six or seven cars piled up to the top with what appeared to be stove or nut coal. They were not ashes, as I took a good look at them. After the story and the pictures appeared in the paper, they suddenly disappeared."

Motorman J. W. Quinn, whose run from the Elevated at Forest Hills to Readville takes him over the section where the coal cars were sidetracked, said:

"In my runs along this section I have noticed at least six or seven cars loaded with coal on the Midland division which were there for more than a week."

BIG STEAMSHIP SINKING

day's sailing distance from the sinking liner.

The Moncenisio is a steamer of 4160 gross tons, 340 feet long and 47 feet beam, and is in command of Capt. Giuseppe Bertolini.

(By Associated Press).

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—Out of the wind-whipped waters of the Pacific came wireless appeals today that told of two freight steamers on the rocks, a third drifting helplessly, a fourth aground, and a fifth burned at sea.

The British freighter Tuscan Prince, the last to succumb to the gale, reported that she was "on the rocks and breaking up fast," but her position was not learned. She was bound for Seattle from San Francisco. She carried a crew of forty-two men.

The steamer Nika, which grounded off the Washington coast, was burned to the water's edge.

The Coast Gurd Cutter Snohomish took off 11 members of the crew.

News of this disaster was contained in a message from the commander of the Snohomish. No details were given and the position of the ship was not stated.

The steamer Santa Rita, which was looking for the steamer Nika, was reported today on the rocks near Tatoosh at the entrance to Puget Sound. Her captain expressed the belief that she would not sink.

The motorship Coolcha, aground near Victoria, B. C., was believed beyond salvage. Her crew has been removed.

Fix That Cold Today

I would rather preserve the health of a nation than be its ruler—MUNYON.

Thousands of people are suffering with colds today. Tomorrow they may be prostrate with grippe or pneumonia. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Get a 25c bottle of Munyon's Cold Remedy at the nearest drug store. This bottle may be conveniently carried in the vest pocket. If you are not satisfied with the effects of the remedy, send us your empty bottle and we will refund your money. Munyon's Cold Remedy will speedily break up all forms of colds and prevent grippe and pneumonia. It checks discharges of the nose and eyes, stops sneezing, allays inflammation and fever, and tones up the system.

A Sure Way to End Dandruff

"USE LIQUID ARVON"

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if no all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

LIPTON'S TEA
Largest Sale in the World

By WINDER R. HARRIS.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Authoritative voice from the Department of Justice, from Federal and State Prisons, the medical profession, the Elks, Salvation Army and the White Cross joined in the pleas before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to free the United States from the "dope" scourge.

All stressed the alarming extent to which the evil has spread and strongly endorsed the Porter resolution for international limitation of production of raw materials to strict medicinal needs as offering the only hope of combatting the menace.

WITNESSES HEARD.

The witnesses were: Assistant Attorney General John W. H. Crim, in charge of the criminal division of the Department of Justice; Dr. Amos O. Squire, chief physician of Sing Sing prison; William J. Elmer, exalted ruler of the Elks' lodge of Chicago; Captain Wesley W. Bouterse, Salvation Army; Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer of the District of Columbia, and W. S. Blanchard, assistant chief of the narcotic unit, treasury department.

The White Cross pledged "all the force" of its support by telegraph. Telegrams from the wardens of the Federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth showing tremendous increase in the number of addicts among prisoners.

Summarized, the outstanding points developed in the testimony were:

1—From 65 to 85 per cent. of the drugs sold by pedlars in this country are smuggled in, the remainder being acquired from unscrupulous physicians and druggists. It is well nigh impossible to stop this smuggling. The Federal government can't even prevent drugs being spirited into its prisons.

AMONG ALL CLASSES.

2—"Dope" no longer is confined to the underworld. Addicts are found in all walks of life—in the ministry, all the professions and among men and women eminent in business and society.

3—Drugs can be had on most any corner of any city or town of any considerable size. If the addict has money. Pedlars waylay addicts and induce men and women to fail again after they have been treated at hospitals. Pedlars frequently make addicts by giving away free samples.

4—Most addicts acquire the habit in their early twenties. A hopeless addict of fourteen years and a vicious criminal through the use of "dope" was discovered by the Salvation Army on the Bowery in New York. Doctors often find mothers giving narcotics to their infants.

5—Forty per cent. of the men sentenced to prison at the recent terms of Federal courts over the country are drug addicts.

USE ON INCREASE.

6—From 1910 to 1922 there was an increase of 600 per cent. in the number of addicts admitted to Sing Sing. Leavenworth and Atlanta reported similar increases.

7. A large proportion of addicts commit crimes to obtain money to satisfy their craving for drugs. Also habitual criminals of the underworld occasionally resort to drugs to stimulate their criminal instincts when planning crimes.

SPY FAKED RED REPORTS FOR DETECTIVES

Chicago, Feb. 15.—A deposition read here today in the trial of twenty-two alleged members of the Communist party at St. Joseph, Mich., by Alfred Ballin, alias Balanow, confessed paid informer and agent provocateur, contained a startling story of methods alleged to have been used by private detective agencies retained to investigate radical activities in this country.

Balanow, former operative for the Burns detective agency and the Thiel detective agency, admitted that many of his reports while in the employ of those agencies were lies.

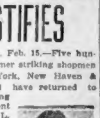
But these reports, Balanow insisted, were made at the direction of officials of the two detective agencies. He said the officials rewarded the fictitious reports to bankers, packers or law officials who retained them to bolster up requests for more money to continue their investigation. Radical labor organizations were informed by operatives of the two agencies for the same purpose, he asserted.

One report, mentioned in particular at false was Balanow's account of meeting in Milwaukee with a radical agent named "Lechovetsky" the day after the Wall street bomb explosion.

That report, according to Balanow's statements, said that "Lechovetsky" told him that a meeting of Russian radicals had been held previous to the Wall street disaster and that a series of bombings, assassinations and armed revolts had been planned. Balanow admitted "Lechovetsky" did not exist.

ACCUSED RAIL STRIKE LEADER TESTIFIES

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 15.—Five hundred of the former striking shopmen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road have returned to work, according to a statement made by C. L. Bardo, general manager, before the Legislative Committee of Railroads at the Capitol during a continued hearing on the railroad situation. This statement was in response to an assertion by representatives of the shopmen who were present that all the strikers were still out 100 per cent. strong.



C. L. Bardo

The central figure at the hearing was Ernest Schleifer, radical leader, who is under a bond of $10,000 while being tried in New Haven, charged with inciting strikers to acts of violence.

Schleifer announced his presence in a dramatic manner. A. A. Alling, of New Haven, State attorney, had just introduced pamphlets and letters to show that Schleifer had advocated anarchism in 1918. As he concluded a tall young man arose and addressed the committee.

"Schleifer speaker," he said, "I am glad that these letters have been introduced here. They have refreshed me only to the Mooney case and I would peddle Mooney propaganda tomorrow if I thought it would do any good. Those papers were in the possession of the Department of Justice and I was never questioned about them. Neither was I ever charged with anything in connection with them."

After Schleifer had stated the strikers' case Mr. Bardo declared the road would not break faith with the men who had entered the road's employ during the emergency. In answer to statements made by Senator Joseph Tone of New Haven, a labor leader, denying there had been violence, Mr. Bardo cited figures on disabled engines.

RETIRED HUB WOOL MERCHANT IS DEAD

John Graham Moseley, retired Boston wool merchant, died at his home, No. 555 Columbus avenue, on his ninetieth birthday. His mother lived on the age of ninety-five. His father died at ninety-seven and his grandfather at 100.

Mr. Moseley was born in Sullivan, Me., February 14, 1833. He was one of the last of the old-time residents of Columbus avenue. Mrs. Moseley died twenty years ago.

WIFE CHARGES HOTEL FOOD KILLED SINGER

New York, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Margaretha Rossa was made administratrix of the estate of her husband, Louis Rossa, an opera singer, of the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies, who died at the Hotel Statler in Detroit, December 22. Her petition states that he left no estate except a claim, which she says she intends to prosecute, against the Hotel Statler, Inc., of Detroit, to recover $100,000 for the loss of her husband. She alleges the hotel company caused his death "in serving to him unwholesome, unfit and poisonous food."

FIRE THREATENS CAMBRIDGE STORES

Fire, fanned by the high wind, for a time threatened the entire business district about Central square, Cambridge, and caused a loss estimated at $3,000 to the building and stock owned by the Harvard Bazaar, Nos. 576-578 Massachusetts avenue. The blaze was caused by defective wiring in a display window. Inflammable material on display quickly caught and spread the flames rapidly.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Eczema, Rash And Irritations Soothed Overnight By Mentho-Sulphur

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

"HOW ARE YOU FEELING TODAY?"

YOU can answer, "I'm feeling fine, thank you," if you keep your blood pure and your system toned up so that the germs which cause those heavy colds and other winter ills will be powerless to attack you.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan, that famous old tonic and blood enricher, will fortify your system and give you strength to withstand the chilling blasts and sudden changes of winter.

Your druggist has it, in both liquid and tablet form.

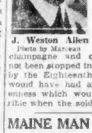
RESENT ALLEN'S 'ORGY' REMARKS

"A terrible orgy of drunkenness" would have ensued after the return of the American expeditionary forces from France, declared former Attorney-General J. Weston Allen when he appeared at a hearing at the State House on a bill to provide heavy penalties for the illegal sale and transportation of liquor.



J. Weston Allen

The assertions of the former Attorney-General caused Alexander Whiteside, former corporation counsel for Boston, and Senator Shea of Holyoke to make vigorous counter attacks. The statement that Allen caused the controversy was:

"If the sale of champagne and other liquors had not been stopped in the United States by the Eighteenth Amendment, we would have had an orgy of drunkenness which would have been terrible when the soldiers returned."

MAINE MAN IS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Farmington, Me., Feb. 15.—John B. Williams, youthful farm hand of Lexington Plantation, was found guilty by a jury of murdering Joseph M. Thorne on his farm in New Sharon, October 26 last. The penalty for murder in Maine is life imprisonment. Thorne was shot through the heart and his body was dismembered.

ADMIRAL BENSON IS MAINE DAY SPEAKER

Rear Admiral William S. Benson, honor guest of the city at the exercises today in connection with the observance of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, was presented with the key to the city by Mayor Curley, after which he was tendered a luncheon at the Parker House. He will be the principal speaker tonight at exercises in Faneuil Hall.

BISHOP BABCOCK IS IMPROVING RAPIDLY

Bishop Babcock, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts is recovering from an operation which he underwent at Elliot Hospital last week. If he convalesces as fast the next few hours as he has the past forty-eight, physicians say he will be able to receive visitors tomorrow or Saturday. Bishop Lawrence was the first person outside of his immediate family to visit him. A large number clergymen have called at the hospital in the hope of seeing the bishop who is extremely popular with those under his supervision as well as with the laity.

No sufferer from catarrh of the stomach can read of this lady's experience as she tells it, without being shamefaced for the existence of remedy like Peruna. Having known nothing of remedy like Peruna. Having known nothing but misery for years, Mrs. Van Buren's feeling of gratitude is not surprising.

These are her words: "I have spent a great deal of money doctoring for catarrh of the stomach and at times have been compelled to give up my housework for days. For years I did not know a well day and cannot help but feel that I now owe my life to Peruna. I have taken seven bottles of Peruna and am now able to do my housework for my family. Peruna cures the digestion, aids elimination, increases the supply of pure blood and drives out the poisonous catarrhal secretions. Try Peruna first. It will save time, money and suffering.

FIREBUG TRIES TO BURN HOME IN SOMERVILLE

The Somerville police are investigating an attempt to burn the home of Anthony Madeiros, at No. 18 Woodbine street, Somerville, while Madeiros and members of his family were asleep. A bundle of newspapers was placed on the window sill of his home and set afire. The reflection of the burning papers on the glass aroused neighbors, who called Madeiros. He extinguished the fire with slight damage.

Mayflowers Bloom in Vermont Though Snow Is Deep

Brattleboro, Vt., Feb. 15.—Although snow is three to four feet deep here, Mrs. Bert H. Leitzinger of No. 1 Myrtle street has a reminder of Spring in a trailing arbutus which bloomed today at her home.

Lieutenant Harmon, in charge of the police station, was notified and Patrolman Samuel Burns made an investigation. Madeiros, the police say, knew of no reason why any person should place the papers on his window and set them afire.

$2,000,000 FIRE SWEEPS OMAHA PACKING PLANT

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 15.—The most destructive fire in the history of America's packing industry destroyed three nine-story buildings of Armour & Company's plant in South Omaha, with an estimated loss of $2,000,000, today.

Two other large buildings used as lard refineries were threatened. More than 1,000 are without employment as a result of the fire.

Assistant Fire Chief M. J. Dinneen was blown eight feet into the air by the explosion of an ammonia tank and was taken to a hospital. Six other firemen were overcome or injured.

Twenty-one fire companies combined efforts in preventing a further spread of the flames.

T. C. Willis, general manager of the plant, said the fire started in the ninth story of building 19 from a defective elevator motor.

Firemen experienced great difficulty in making water connections because of the zero weather, and low pressure further hindered them, the streams barely reached the sixth story at times. Huge stocks of lard melted and ran over the buildings like liquid fire.

Firemen became incrusted with ice and some of them literally froze to their hose lines.

CARDINAL BACILIERI DEAD FROM FALL

London, Feb. 15. — Cardinal Bartholomew Bacilieri, bishop of Verona, who fell and struck his head while celebrating mass, is dead, according to a dispatch from Rome.

The cardinal struck his head with considerable force in the fall and was carried from the church on Sunday in an unconscious condition. The church was crowded at the time and the congregation was thrown into great excitement when the prelate was seen to fall.

FIRE WIPES OUT OLD CODMAN HOUSE

One fireman was injured and a family of seven were driven out in a fire which partially destroyed the famous old Codman House, a local landmark, and several farm buildings on what is known as the Codman Farm, No. 951 Washington street, Dorchester.

The fire was caused by an overheated oil stove and resulted in damage estimated at $6,000. William H. Harkins, a fireman, was removed to the City Hospital, and treated for serious injuries suffered when he slipped and fell from the roof of the blazing dwelling.

Doomed Miner Offers to Sell His Four Children

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 15.—Dominick Batch, a miner, who has been confined to the State hospital for two years with a broken back, today advertised his four small children for sale. The mother of the children has been seriously ill for several weeks and there is no one to care for them.

BEATING FATAL TO ASYLUM INMATE

Providence, Feb. 15.—John Keezer, eighty-two years old, died at the State Hospital January 21 of pneumonia induced by an assault committed by two attendants of the institution, according to the report of Coroner Otis A. Hawkins, filed with the attorney general.

George W. Cunningham, one of the accused attendants, is still at large. Eugene Morgan, the other, surrendered to the police a week ago. He is held charged with manslaughter.

MAN INJURED WHILE AT WORK

John Nerney, forty-five years old of No. 239 Broadway, South Boston, suffered a fractured right shoulder when he was struck by a piece of lumber while he was at work at Commonwealth Pier. He is at the City Hospital.

"MY DEAR, USE POSLAM FOR THOSE PIMPLES"

This really happened—I could help overhearing it. A motherly lady dropped into the seat beside well-dressed girl. "My dear," she said, "forgive my intruding, but you would be SO pretty if you only had a clear healthy skin? Why don't you use Poslam? It did such wonders for my daughters years ago that I can't help recommending it to young folks like you who need it. I just know it would help you!"

Her advice was so good that I put it on to you. You can get Poslam and Poslam Soap—at any druggist. Why not begin using them tonight? They will often clear away pimples in 24 hours. For trial sample, send 4c to POSLAM, 245 W. 47th St., New York.

"You must change your tooth paste"

Avoid pastes that cleanse harshly

Your dentist will tell you that the safe paste to use is one that does not injure the enamel. For once scratched, decay sets in. Then pain, expense and unsightly teeth follow.

You can see that you must select your tooth paste carefully.

Here is a safe paste—dentists approve it

The makers of the famous Listerine have included in Listerine Tooth Paste, the delightful new dentifrice, a perfect polishing agent. It is just hard enough to remove tartar, discoloration, etc., but not hard enough to mar or scratch the precious enamel. Every day it does its cleansing work—safely!

Fruit acids make your mouth water

Fruit acids in this paste aid Nature in combating decay and keeping teeth and gums healthy. In the mouth they stimulate an extra flow of natural saliva which counteracts the destructive fermentations caused by sweet and starchy foods. When your mouth waters you know the paste is working.

Get a tube—watch your teeth whiten

After you give Listerine Tooth Paste a thorough trial you won't be satisfied with ordinary pastes. You'll like the way it keeps the teeth white and sparkling, and that cool, clean feeling it imparts to the entire mouth. At your dealer's—25 cents.

Cinderella Ball Draws Large Gathering of Smart Set, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

CLEVERLY portraying the new Batik note was the draped creation of gold and Nile green which talented Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman wore to the Cinderella Ball the other night. A gorgeous peacock fan completed the costume, altogether one of the smartest in the ballroom. But then, wherever the former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor goes, she's the cynosure of all eyes because of her chic gowns.

Mrs. "Ollie" Ames, Jr.—one of the thirty-one distinguished patronesses for the ball—wore a rather bizarre affair of white taffeta with black stripes. One of her sisters, dainty Louise Fessenden, was gowned in blue and silver brocade, a slender fillet of diamonds in her blonde hair. Speaking of the Fessendens, sister "Rosie" and her husband, Edward L. Bigelow, will probably return from their honeymoon early next month.

Miss Katherine Abbott, popular daughter of the Gordon Abbotts, was there—her gown a shimmering affair of delicate blue and silver. Slender Nell White—whose engagement to David Sears created a small furore of interest when it was announced earlier in the season—wore a simple frock of gray crepe with lace draperies of the same color, over which she wore a handsome shawl of the new almond green.

Prominent among the recently-engaged couples there were Miss Ellen Greenough and her fiance, Hardwick Stires, of New York, who's now a senior at Harvard. Miss Greenough, who made her debut last year, is a tall brunette, with masses of wavy dark brown hair. Her dress of jade green and silver was fashioned in the draped mode, fitting closely to the body. Everyone, of course, was bestowing congratulations upon the young couple.

Also in gray was Miss Sally Cabot, debutante daughter of Mrs. Charles M. Cabot, whom I saw chatting for a while in a corner with a fellow-bud, Miss Polly Thayer, who's frock was a girlishly-made affair of pink, its wide skirt trimmed with bands of silver.

An outstanding figure was clever Berthe Braggiotti, wearing a striking gown of cloth of gold, a turban, also of cloth of gold, swathing her brown hair. Her sister, pretty Francesca Braggiotti, was there, too, her gown of dark green velvet.

I musn't forget the brides—Mrs. Oliver Wolcott (Sybil Appleton) and Mrs. John Simpkins ("Mim" Fenno). The Wolcotts, who were married in December at a quiet ceremonial in the bride's home, have only just returned from their wedding journey abroad. The one-time Sybil Appleton, who was gowned in white taffeta, served as bridesmaid late in October when the daughter of the J. Brooks Fennos was married to John Simpkins. The former "Mim" Fenno wore a simply-made frock of old rose very becoming to her brunette coloring.

Among the others present were the Frederick S. Whitwells, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Binney, the William Amory Parkers (Elise Ames), Miss Peggy Porter, in wine-colored silk; Miss Elizabeth Thorndike, her gown of orange color; the Misses Susan and Anita Sturgis, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge and Dudley Pickman.

All in all, it was a very nice ball—what there was of it! It began promptly at 9.30 and stopped promptly at midnight, all according to schedule—it being a Cinderella event. Which turned out to be just the trouble, just as I suspected. Nobody wanted to go home.

It was too early.

ALSO going on Tuesday night at the Somerset, but in the smaller ballroom, was the dance which Mrs. Herman Parker of Commonwealth avenue gave for her debutante niece, Miss Elizabeth Percival. There was quite a bit of going to and fro from one dance to another, making it rather hard to tell just "who was at which," so to speak.

Miss Percival—she's the daughter of the David C. Percivals of Commonwealth avenue—wore a frock of pale pink and lace and carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

One of the prettiest girls there was slender Helen Stone, daughter of the Robert E. Stones, whose gown was a simple affair of old blue crepe, made in the new long-waisted mode, with uneven hem line. Miss Helen Bayley wore rather an unusual looking affair of silver, with a large border of purple velvet. A turban of silver almost completely concealed her hair.

Miss Evelyn Walker—she's a distinct blonde of the rather fragile type—chose white and pink for her costume. Slender, graceful Helen Clark, one of the notable buds, wore olive green, with lace draperies of the same color. Miss Nina Underwood's gown was of silver cloth, with flare skirt and uneven hem line. Dark-haired Gertrude Russell, one of the most girlish-looking buds of the season, wore a becoming frock of delicate pink.

Betty Alden

MISS ELIZABETH PERCIVAL

Miss Elizabeth Percival, whose aunt, Mrs. Herman Parker, gave a dance for her at the Hotel Somerset on Tuesday night, is the bud daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Percival.

CHARGES ASTOR IS RENT PROFITEER

New York, Feb. 15.—Vincent Astor is "unreasonable, unjust and oppressive" in his rent charges as a landlord, according to the complaint of one of his tenants, Mrs. Helena D. Chevrolet, a widow. Young Mr. Astor boosted Mrs. Chevrolet's rent at No. 130 West Seventy-second street from $2,500 a year to $3,000, according to counsel in asking Justice Walsh for an order for the multi-millionaire landlord to appear in court. Astor is now at Palm Beach. His counsel said there was no reason for requiring him to testify before trial. Decision was reserved.

MISS NORMAND TELLS STYLE RAGE IN PARIS

Just back from Paris where she attended some Spring style openings, Mabel Normand, called the best dressed woman in the movies, tells what fashionable Europeans are wearing.

By MABEL NORMAND.

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, Feb. 15.—Be simple. Simplicity is the style in Europe. While the rest of the world seeks madly for European freaks, most European women really dress quite simply. This Spring the boulevards of Paris and London are breathing simplicity in every smart line of frock.

But remember lace. Lace finds a place on every gown. On black silk afternoon frocks there is nothing smarter than Venetian lace around the neck and also the arms. I brought back with me a stunning tricotine street dress with Venetian lace collar. The evening dresses, too, are valanced with lace of any color, exquisite hand-made pieces.

Beads make the daintiest ornaments this season. They are appliqued in delicate designs, using pastel shades. Rhinestones and pearls have come into their own, too. I'm bringing home a number of evening gowns that seem literally covered with rhinestones, pearls and dainty colored beads.

Skirts are wide and long. Fur is used on everything. The close fitting mushroom hat is most popular. The footwear is delightfully original with straps and buckles.

The smartest people are wearing dark clothes. Black and white is best, but color is good, too. Satins are very good for afternoon gowns, suits and so on.

For evening heavy metallic clothes are favored. The long-waisted silhouette is popular.

Everything seems touched with special beauty in the European shops this Spring, but I like the things in America just as well.

FOOD QUERY DEPARTMENT

YOUR FOOD PURCHASING DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

A THURSDAY FEATURE

Are you at a loss as to where you can secure some particular brand or kind of foodstuffs? If so, write the Boston American Food Query Editor. We will answer your inquiry in these columns as quickly as possible.

February 9, 1923.

Food Query Editor,
Dear Sir:

Had some very delicious peas at a friend's house the other evening. My friend could not remember where she had purchased these goods and as the label on the can was partly torn it was impossible to read the address, but we could distinguish the name of Royal Purple. Could you tell me if there is such a brand of goods as Royal Purple and if so where I could purchase same.

Yours very truly,
MRS. F. M. SPROULE,
Wellesley, Mass.

Answering your inquiry of the 10th regarding Royal Purple brand of can goods, would say that this brand is controlled entirely by the Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Co., and these people put up an entire line of various can goods under this brand. You can, therefore, secure same at any one of their stores.

Madison, Me., Feb. 10, 1923.

Food Query Editor,
Dear Sir,

Several years ago, through the aid of the American, we were able to purchase fresh fish of the Alden Mills Co. at a price away below local prices. A recent letter to the Mills Co. brings the information that they are not in the wholesale fish business at present, so I am writing you for the address of some other reliable concern in Boston where a poor devil down here in Maine can send and get a few pounds of fresh fish by parcel post at somewhere near a reasonable price.

I am enclosing a return envelope for your convenience and thank you in advance for the information.

Yours respectfully,
CHESTER H. HAYNES,
Madison, Maine.

Arthur E. Dorr & Co. can furnish you with fresh fish at reasonable prices.

Food Query Editor,
Dear Sir,

We are strangers in the East and just moved to Quincy from St. Louis last week. My husband and myself like good things to eat but wish to buy first class meats and groceries as reasonable as possible. The stores on our square do not look good to me. Could you recommend a market where we could obtain food as mentioned above?

Yours very truly,
MRS. W. J. DONOVAN,
Quincy, Mass.

The Arthur E. Dorr Co. have a very fine market in Quincy Square and you can secure from them very choice meats and fish at reasonable prices. The Ginter Company and John T. Connor Co. have grocery stores in Quincy. They handle first class groceries at attractive prices.

Food Query Editor,
Dear Sir,

Just returned from a trip to Toronto, Canada. While there had some bacon in the Windsor Hotel, the like of which I have never tasted before or since. It was delicious. Making inquiry found out they called it Wiltshire. I wonder if you could tell me if I could purchase Wiltshire bacon in Boston and if so where.

Thanking you in advance, I am

Yours very truly,
MRS. GRACE HOGAN,
137 Peterboro St., Boston, Mass.

You can secure Davies Wiltshire bacon at the following markets: Sharp's Market, 177 Federal St., Boston. H. Morrell & Co., 11 Merchants Row, Boston. Heiward's Market, 188 Dartmouth St., Boston.

BENEFIT TO AID STRIKING SHOPMEN

A benefit performance is to be given Sunday evening at the Arlington Theatre in aid of the relief fund of the Boston & Maine and N. Y. N. H. & H. striking shopmen and women. The affair is to be staged under the auspices of local unions 11 and 182, I. A. T. S. and M. P. M. O. The program will include fifteen vaudeville acts from the best theatres.

COTTON MEN OPPOSE BOAT LINE TO SOUTH

Fall River, Feb. 15.—Opposition to the establishment of a new steamship line between Norfolk, Va., and this city has developed among a number of cotton manufacturers here. It is pointed out that the proposed line would be of much greater benefit to Southern manufacturers than it would be to the local manufacturers and those of other textile centres through the North.

HOOK-UP TAKES IN DISTANT STATIONS

A four tube reflex circuit, in which two of the tubes serve as both audio and radio-frequency amplifiers, is offered in the free tube contest by Frederick J. Rumford of Rockford street, Roxbury.

Remarkable results, both with an outdoor aerial and with a loop antenna have been secured on this set, which will bring in the long distance stations on a loud speaker.

What an ingenious fan can do with $5 is shown by M. E. Foster of Bryant avenue, Minneapolis, who constructed a successful vacuum tube receiver for this amount.

In spite of its cheapness, Foster has received programs from Louisville, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Fort Worth with it.

The set includes a vernier rheostat, on fifty-turn honeycomb coil, a grid condenser, a twenty-three-plate variable condenser and a tube. The hook-up is an ordinary single circuit, using the coil for the inductance and the condenser for tuning.

7 OVERCOME AT PHILADELPHIA FIRE

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—Four fire captains and three firemen were overcome by smoke while fighting a fire which caused about $50,000 damage to contents of the Morrison storage warehouse, Nos. 2227-29 Market street.

RUHR GERMANS PLAN EXODUS TO AMERICA

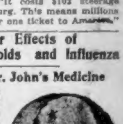
New York, Feb. 15.—Just from the occupied districts of Germany, Miss Jessie Gutmann, educated and attractive, told immigration officials on Ellis Island that thousands of restless Germans are preparing to come to the United States.

Many families from the Ruhr region were among the passengers on the steamship Hansa, from Bremen. Some were wives of miners coming with their children to join relatives in the mining districts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. They all told the same story—that the Germans in the occupied districts of Germany are bent upon coming to the United States despite the efforts of the French to stop them.

"Only those who may have relatives in the United States can buy a ticket across the ocean," said Miss Gutmann. "It costs $102 steerage from Hamburg. This means millions of marks for one ticket to America."

The After Effects of Colds and Influenza

Take Fr. John's Medicine



There is real danger in the after effects of colds and influenza because these attacks leave their victims with a cough or in a weakened condition, with doors open to the attacks of other illness.

You can build up your lowered resisting power by taking Father John's Medicine, the pure food elements of which strengthen and nourish the system. Father John's Medicine soothes and heals the lining of the breathing passages and being a real food medicine builds new strength and flesh without using dangerous drugs.

A deft touch to the table

HAPPY thought—Spanish Green Olives. A touch of color among the shining silver and white linen. They're decorative—appealing to the eye and to the taste.

For most everybody enjoys the salty, tangy flavor of green olives. This plump, meaty fruit is an addition to any dinner. And green olives are good for all—children and grown-ups alike. They contain 1603 calories per pound. Medium-fat loin of beef contains but 1190. Serve green olives often. Buy a bottle or two to-day.

ISADORA FLAYS U. S. AS NATION OF BANDITS

Paris, Feb. 15.—Dressed in a flaming red dress and her eyes flashing angrily, Isadora Duncan, classical dancer, who has just arrived from a tour in the United States, denounced America and all Americans as "land of bandits."

The room in which the correspondent was received was darkened, but he could see darkened circles about the famous dancer's eyes. This recalled a report from New York that Isadora had suffered a black eye in a dispute with her husband.

Isadora Duncan

U. S. VISIT MARTYRDOM.

"These are not black eyes," exclaimed Isadora. "They are the result of a brown pencil.

"I lost four months of my life on my American visit. It was martyrdom.

"My husband was treated worse in America than he ever was in Russia. Americans are like a pack of wolves. A friend had to give us money to leave New York and come to France.

"America was founded by a bunch of bandits, adventurers, Puritans and pioneers. Now the bandits have the upper hand.

WHISKEY ON AMERICAN LINER

"Prohibition is the worst curse ever foisted upon the United States. Why, the whiskey flowed like water on the American liner George Washington coming over to France.

"The Ku Klux Klan tried to deport us, but the American Legion is the worst of all. It is the worst bunch of old women I ever met.

"Americans would do anything for money. They would sell their souls, their mothers or their fathers. America is no longer my country. Ireland is the country for me, but now Paris is not so bad."

BAY STATE WOMEN TALK WITH HARDING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—At a meeting arranged by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts with President Harding, Mrs. Frederick W. Bagley and Mrs. Grenville W. Knowlton, Jr., members of the Republican State Committee from the Bay State, discussed the reorganization of the government departments and the creation of a department of national education, in which they are interested. While in Washington they also secured the services of Senator Shortridge of California to address the Republican Woman's Club at the Copley-Plaza Hotel next month. The two Massachusetts women were cordially received by President Harding, who listened with deep interest to their opinions on the subjects under discussion. Both Mrs. Bagley and Mrs. Knowlton reported that their meeting with the President was productive of progress.

ESTABROOK HOME IN SUDBURY BURNS

Sudbury Centre, Feb. 15.—The Summer home on the Concord road of Harry Estabrook of Boston and Cambridge was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. The old-fashioned house was unoccupied at the time. The Sudbury firemen bent their efforts to saving a barn nearby. The local fire department is equipped only with chemicals, and aid from surrounding towns was impossible over the snow choked roads.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged Up Kidney Deposits Are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told to Guarantee It in Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys, so whatever you do, do not neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous Prescription No. 77, Carey, for years as Mentholett, is now recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passage of water night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating, irritability with loss of flesh, or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, for kidney disease in its worst form may be standing near you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful kidney remedy, as otherwise in a short time you may be a victim of one of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't stay away. They will grow upon you more stealthily and with unfailing certainty. If you even suspect that you are subject to Kidney Disease, don't lose a single day, for Epstein Drug Co., Lemming Co. Stores, and every good druggist have been authorized to refund the purchase money on the first big bottle to all who state they have received no benefit.

Talented Actress

MIRIAM GREENWALT

Out of the popular Loew's Frolics steps Miriam Greenwalt, a Watertown girl, who, more than likely, will take her regular place on the professional stage in another year—perhaps before the close of the present season.

In competition with nearly 1,000 other young amateurs Miss Greenwalt tried for a place in the Frolics and not only made an immediate hit with Victor Hyde, the director, but easily led the entire contingent of local amateurs in the completed production.

Miss Greenwalt lives on School street in Watertown. She sings and plays the piano and, without previous experience in musical revue, she has acted very much at home with Loew's Frolics.

BANGOR HAS FIRST SLEEP MALADY CASE

Bangor, Me., Feb. 15.—The first case of sleeping sickness that has been reported to the Bangor Health Department this year was sent into the health authorities today. The victim was Mrs. Hortense H. Davis, a desk clerk at the public library. It is thought most likely that Mrs. Davis contracted the disease from germs that may have been lurking about the books. Charles A. Flagg, an ex-librarian, died of the same malady two years ago.

"LURE OF SLUGGERS" GAVE FALSE NAME

A South End girl, accused by police of luring men victims to the den of a gang of South End sluggers, where they were robbed, said she was Margaret Joyce, of No. 239 Geneva avenue, Dorchester. As a result, numerous people thought that the so-called "lure" was one of the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Joyce, of No. 12 Bispham avenue, Dorchester. This is not the case. The girl held by the police is not related in any way and it is understood that she gave the name of Joyce as an alias to protect her own family.

SUGAR CORNER TO COST PUBLIC $200,000,000

New York, Feb. 15.—The rise of raw sugar within the past few weeks, alleged to be a result of connivance between sugar growers and bankers, will cost the American public $200,000,000, it is estimated.

However, one of the nation's leading sugar refiners, James H. Post, advises consumers to "sit tight," and the sugar balloon will burst.

"The sugar market will be just what the people make it," he said. "If they have a return of the hysteria which they experienced in 1920, when sugar soared to 25 cents a pound, there is no power that I know of to prevent a repetition of such prices.

"The American people do not seem to realize that the sugar market is a broad, international market and that the refiners are dependent upon one or a few sources of supply for the raw product. During the last sugar shortage we brought raw sugar from India and China.

"I have no quarrel with the Department of Commerce in issuing its statement which, at best, could cover only the superficial aspects of the case. But I do object quite strenuously to the drawing of deductions which are not concurred in by the leaders of the sugar industry. The same applies to other important branches of industry."

MAN HIT BY TRAIN DYING IN CAMBRIDGE

James Murphy, thirty-four years old, address unknown, was probably fatally injured when struck by a train he was attempting to board at the North Cambridge station of the Boston & Maine railroad. Murphy was hit by the engine and thrown thirty feet. His ankle was broken and he suffered concussion of the brain and other injuries. He was taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list.

COLD WAVE WILL STAY UNTIL SATURDAY

No immediate relief from the cold wave that gripped Boston last night is in sight, although Forecaster Smith stated today that by Saturday it might be slightly warmer.

Only a stiff wind blowing from the west at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour prevented the mercury from dropping even lower last night. If Boston does not get this wind tonight, it will be even colder. The highest during the night was 13 at 1 o'clock and the lowest was 10 at 6 o'clock. The lowest this season was 5 degrees on January 18.

It was slightly warmer in the northeast today, the site of yesterday's intense cold. Temperatures ranged there from zero to 20 below. In the northeast zero was reported from Northfield, Vt., and Greenville, Me.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Deaths, demoralized train service and property loss were reported today as the severe cold spell tightened its grip on the shivering West. Two deaths were added to the toll taken by the cold wave in Chicago, where the mercury this morning was hovering at 5 below zero, the coldest since 1917. Minneapolis Minn reported that region was experiencing the coldest weather since 1872. The mercury was at 15 below.

The cold wave, according to reports, has swept the nation from California to Newfoundland, a few states in the extreme Southeast being exceptions.

Pacific Coast reports were that Oregon, Washington and British Columbia are in the grip of a blizzard.

The cold snap was broken somewhat in the Rocky Mountain region, according to dispatches from Denver. The mercury rose to 14 above zero, compared with a four-degree below temperature yesterday.

Seven deaths have been reported as the result of the storm in the Northwest. Train service into Minneapolis and St. Paul is gradually being resumed.

Winnipeg dispatches reported a total of ten deaths directly due to a blizzard which swept western Canada.

The Central Plains States were experiencing near zero weather. It was 10 above at 7 o'clock this morning in Kansas City. In Chicago there were 150 fire alarms in the last 24 hours.

In New York City intense cold, accompanied by a chilling wind that at times achieved a seventy-two-mile-an-hour velocity, brought much suffering. Fuel administrators received many requests for emergency coal rations.

At Rochester, N. Y., two persons dead, several injured, and a heavy loss in property, is the toll of the storm and cold.

1,500 CASES OF RUM STOLEN FROM MAKERS

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Approximately 1,500 cases of whiskey with an estimated value of $185,000, have been stolen from the warehouse of B. Mo Claskey & Son, distillers, the agent for the company reported to the police. The burglar alarm was found disconnected.

POLICEMAN HAD TO HOLD LOVING PAIR APART

"The Cave-man wins." This from William John Bobick, twenty-three years old, of Cambridge.

"You bet he does," echoed his bride of two days as she fought with a Cambridge police officer and matron to impart one last kiss on his lips before they were locked up.

Still fighting, she was led away to a cell at Cambridge police headquarters while Bobick was taken before Judge Sisk in Superior Criminal Court to answer an indictment charging him with abducting Margaret "Rita" English, seventeen years old, "the belle of Cambridgeport."

"Oh, such a pair," muttered Special Officer Donlon of police Station 5, as they were taken from him. "I had to hold them apart by main force and finally incarcerate him in a smoking room to keep them from shocking the other passengers on the train from Worcester with their cave-man lovemaking."

"Rita," by the way, will be arraigned in the Third District Court, Cambridge, today on a charge of being a stubborn child. Her mother, thirty-two years old, will appear against the pair.

Involved with Bobick and his "cavewoman" bride, are another Cambridge couple, whose elopement fell flat when the boy in the case took a train home after one night at Worcester. The second couple, also awaiting arraignment in court on charges growing out of the quadruple elopement. They are Mary Edna Carpenter, sixteen years old, pretty, of No. 253 Broadway, Cambridge held on a charge of being a stubborn child and Roland Clements, twenty two years old, of No. 111 Harvard street, held in $1,000 on a charge of enticing her from home.

SEES LIGHT THROUGH GRAFTED PIG'S EYE

Bandages placed on the blind boy after the unusual operation in which a pig's cornea was grafted on his socket, were removed and Lemonowics was directed to walk to a window. He did so without hesitation.

BEAUTY IS CAPTAIN'S BRIDE

Allston Girl Sacrifices Career for Love and Sails to Distant Haiti

One of Boston's girls with a real claim to be called a beauty has made the choice between marriage and a career.

Mildred Fairbanks Shattuck of No 1880 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, elected to wed. She became the bride of Captain Harry Denny Campbell, U. S. M. C., war hero, and left today for Haiti, where her soldier-husband is assigned to duty.

OFFERED OPERA ROLE.

The bride was budding as a star in opera. She sang a minor role in "Faust," and was offered a contract by the Chicago Civic Opera Company. She has appeared in several concerts sponsored by Boston society. The fine quality of her voice, her histrionic ability and her beauty were considered as fitting her for a place of note in the opera world.

But she made her choice, and a romance of ten years' standing was cemented in marriage at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O. Shattuck. The couple were married by Rev. Ernest Edward Guthrie, Pastor of the Union Congregational Church, Back Bay. The single ring service was observed.

ROMANCE OF CAMP.

When the young war hero was attending a camp at Rock Point, Vt., and when Miss Shattuck was instructing, at the age of fifteen, in a girls' camp at High Gate, Vt., they became acquainted.

Captain "Denny" received a degree from Norwich and went overseas with the First Division in June, 1917. He fought in many of the major engagements of the war. He was wounded four times, cited for bravery at Chateau Thierry and returned a captain in the Marine Corps.

From his station at Quantico, Va., he conducted his courtship by correspondence. Ten days ago he received notice of assignment to Haiti. The couple decided to get married. Judge Murray waived the five-day law and the ceremony was performed.

EX-SALVATION ARMY GIRL GOES ON STAGE

New York, Feb. 15.—Rheba Crawford, formerly a captain in the Salvation Army, who has won many friends in the theatrical district and elsewhere, because of her beauty and attractive personality, has been made the heroine of a three-act drama of Broadway life. It is to be called "My Girl Pal."

Miss Crawford, who is known for the good-natured sectos she had with the police over the holding of open air Sunday night meetings in Broadway, has received many previous offers to appear on the stage.

CAPTAIN DROPS DEAD AT FIRE IN CAMBRIDGE

Captain James H. Furfey of Engine 6, Cambridge, dropped dead while fighting a fire at No. 2 Copperthwaite street. Several of his men carried him out when he collapsed on the top floor of the building.

It was believed he was suffering from effects of smoke. At the Relief Hospital he was pronounced dead. The fire was a slight blaze in the chimney of a house owned by James De Lucca.

Wife No. 2 in Marital Tangle

ANNIE BRANDIE

Mrs. Lansford M. Harrington of South Sudbury awoke one morning to find that her husband, from whom she was separated, had run down to Alexandra, Va., got a divorce and had married Miss Annie Brandie of Hudson.

"I'm not going to let her steal my husband from his children," declared Mrs. Harrington.

On the ground that the Virginia divorce was illegal, Mrs. Harrington's attorney obtained an indictment against Harrington. He was charged with polygamy. Arraigned in Middlesex County Superior Court at East Cambridge, Harrington was held in $2,000 bail.

John Rice of Marlboro district attorney, asserts that in Virginia a divorce can be granted legally only to a person a resident of that State for at least one year.

With Mrs Harrington No 1 are her two children, a girl, four years old and a boy, three years old. She was Mary Jones, daughter of a prominent South Sudbury resident, and married five years ago.

HAZED HIGH SCHOOL BOY SUES HIS CITY

Ashland, Kan., Feb. 15.—Frank Dalton, seventeen years old, high school boy, has filed a suit for $10,000 damages against the Ashland Board of Education. In a "hazing" Dalton claims he was ridden on a rail, ducked in icy water and beaten with laths by local students and townsmen. The hazing was because Dalton "roosted" for the visitors at a recent basketball game, students declared.

NAVY BOATSWAIN ENDS LIFE BY SHOT

Portsmouth, Feb. 15.—A quarrel with his wife, who had threatened sue for divorce, followed by orders to a foreign station, is blamed for the suicide of Harry L. Tilman, twenty-eight years old, a chief boatswain's mate U. S. N. He shot himself aboard the tug James Polley at the Navy Yard here. The couple lived in East Boston prior to coming here.

LARGEST ANCHOR MADE FOR LEVIATHAN

Chester, Pa., Feb. 15.—The American Steel Foundries here has completed what is declared to be the largest anchor ever made in this country. It weighs 33,300 pounds and is of cast steel. It was built for the Leviathan, in dry dock at Newport News, Va. Ordinary anchors weigh from six to ten thousand pounds.

FIND GIRL VICTIM OF AMNESIA

Wanders on Street in Dorchester, Unable to Remember Who She Is

Her mind an absolute blank as to the past, a pretty young woman is under observation as an amnesia case at the City Hospital. She was taken to the hospital from Washington street, Dorchester.

Passersby noticed her because she was easy to look at, and because she was acting in such a strange manner. She is about thirty years old, medium height and weight, fair complexion, brown hair and eyes. She was dressed in a well-cut brown plaid overcoat, gray dress, low shoes, gray woolen stockings and blue hat.

She seemed bewildered. Had her appearance been less refined, that bewilderment might have been mistaken for intoxication. A passerby came up to her and asked her if he could direct her.

She looked at him with a blank expression in her face, as if she neither saw him nor heard what he said. Her lips moved, but no sound came. A crowd began to gather.

"Where do you want to go, lady?"

"Are you feeling sick?"

"What's your name?"

To all questions she shook her head. She did not resent them, she simply could not answer. A policeman appeared, saw the little group and investigated.

An hour later, the policeman having questioned her in vain, the woman was at the hospital. Efforts of the hospital authorities to learn her name were fruitless. Here she did break her silence, and answered questions readily.

She professed inability to recall her name, identity, address of the circumstances of her life. It was decided to hold her at the hospital for observation.

From her appearance and talk, police are sure the woman is in good circumstances, and that before her mind is up will be identified by somebody who knows her.

FIRE LIEUTENANT GETS HERO MEDAL

Lieutenant Henry J Kelley of Engine 39, Charlestown, has been awarded the gold bar of the Order of Merit of the Boston Fire Department by Commissioner Theodore A Glynn. The honor was accorded Kelley for heroism when he jumped from the ferryboat Brewster in mid-harbor on March 12, 1918, to rescue a woman passenger who had either fallen or leaped overboard.

Lieut. Henry J. Kelley

Through error Lieutenant Kelley's name had been left off the list of those to receive awards each year until Commissioner Glynn took office. He discovered the oversight.

PASTOR FINED $1 AS VICE LAW VIOLATOR

Union Hill, N. J., Feb. 15.—Charged with violating the "Vice and Immorality Act," Rev. Joseph N. Grieff, of the Holy Family Church, today was fined one dollar by the city recorder for sponsoring a presentation of the "Passion Play" on Sunday. The clergyman refused to plead but paid his fine, announcing that he would continue the "Passion Play" until there is no longer public demand for it. He was caught in a new campaign instigated to compel enforcement of the Blue laws.

HUB SINGER PREFERS LOVE TO CAREER

MRS. MILDRED S. CAMPBELL

Former Mildred Fairbanks Shattuck, concert singer, whose war romance has culminated in her marriage to Captain Campbell of the U. S. Marine Corps. They are now on their way to Haiti, where her soldier husband is assigned to duty.

ROXBURY STORE HOLDUP BY 3 BANDITS

Armed with automatics, three young men entered the drug store at No 293 Dudley street, Roxbury, locked proprietor Dudley Mulrenin into a corner, where they relieved him of $213, ordered clerk James Ryan to the cellar, where they took $73 from him, looted the cash register and departed.

Mulrenin and his clerk were figuring the cash returns preparatory to closing the store when the three appeared. Figuring them to be late customers Mr Mulrenin turned to wait on them.

Greeting the storekeeper with a smile, one of the trio ordered something. In the meanwhile another bandit had taken a position near Ryan.

Once the attention of the two storekeepers had been distracted the visitors thrust automatic revolvers at their heads, at the same time issuing warning that if either one of the two made any outcry they would be shot.

Mulrenin was commanded to retreat to a darkened corner in the rear of the store. Ryan was urged to lead the way into the cellar by another.

Besides taking $70 from the cash register, the men got $213 from Mulrenin's clothing and $73 from Ryan. In addition they are said to have stolen a quantity of prescription liquor from the premises.

'POWDER HOUSE' OIL TANK IS PROTESTED

Residents of the Powder House square section of Somerville are up in arms against the petition of the Gulf Refining Company for permission to erect a tank to contain 6,000 gallons of gasolene at No. 134 College avenue, corner of Broadway.

The Somerville Board of Aldermen have held a public hearing on the matter, at which residents of College avenue appeared and strongly opposed the granting of the petition.

H O Lacount of No 124 College avenue presented a petition signed by thirty-three residents of the vicinity protesting against the erection of the tank.

He stated that the proposed site faces Powder House square and Powder House park, which is directly a residential district, and the introduction of a commercial enterprise is decidedly out of place.

Dr. C. A. C. Richardson of No. 128 College avenue said that College avenue is a street of churches, there being seven of different denominations on the thoroughfare, and the city would derive no benefit from a filling station. He urged the aldermen to keep the section a residential one.

Seth Mason, representing the Somerville Historical Society, stated that his organization opposed the petition from the standpoint of public interest. Any building obnoxious to a community, placed near a public park, would depreciate the adjoining property and spoil the beauty of the park. The aldermen have taken the matter under advisement up to that time being 88 inches.

POISONOUS RUM KILLS WOMAN

Husband and Two Others In Providence Are Reported Dying

Providence, Feb. 15.—A woman is dead and her husband and two others are dying of poison liquor.

The police are seeking the source of the deadly stuff.

The body of Mrs. Rose Parneton, forty-five years old, of No. 149 Friendship street was found on the floor of a bedroom. F. Harry Panneton, fifty years old, her husband, a drug clerk, was suffering on the bed. Mrs. Jennie Cost, visiting them from Fall River, informed the police.

An autopsy on the woman's body was to be performed today. Her husband is on the danger list at the Rhode Island Hospital. The others near death are: Lillian Sess, twenty-five years old, of No. 140 Broadway and Peter McGuire, forty-eight years old, of No. 246 South street.

Miss Sess was arrested as drunk. She became unconscious in her cell and was rushed to the hospital. McGuire was found unconscious in Jefferson street.

The victims succumbed to the bad liquor in widely separated sections of the city.

The fatality and the casualties are the most alarming results of bad booze in this city since prohibition became a law. Federal and city investigators are tracing the "hooch." In the room where the Panneltons were stricken were found several bottles of liquid labelled "medicated alcohol."

SORORITY AT B. U. TO HOLD BAZAAR

A mysterious fortune teller, a rummage sale, candy and flower tables are some of the features of the bazaar which is to be given by the girls of the Sigma Alpha Mu sorority of the College of Business Administration of Boston University next Tuesday evening at the new building No 191 Newbury street.

HARVARD FRESHMAN ELECTION IN DOUBT

Joseph McGlone of Natick, the all-round athlete and Yankee Division veteran, who was nominated to run against Nathaniel Saltonstall Howe for president of the Harvard freshman class, has declined the nomination.

MATCH FACTORIES SWEPT BY FIRE

Southbury, Ct., Feb. 15.—Fire early today destroyed three buildings of the paper manufacturing plant of the Diamond Match Company here. The loss was estimated at $100,000. Persons living nearby formed a bucket brigade to check the flames, but a high wind foiled their efforts.

The plant had been closed for six months. Fire was unexplained.

100 INCHES OF SNOW RECORD IN PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Feb. 15.—The total snowfall for Portland this winter passed the 100-inch mark when three and a half inches fell, the total up to that time being 88 inches.

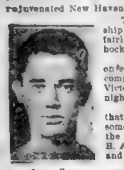
B. A. A. AND NEW HAVEN PUCK CHASERS IN TITLE TUSSLE

BOTH TEAMS IN PRIME FORM FOR HARD GAME

Tonight at the Arena the undefeated B. A. A. team will meet the hardest test of its championship season when it will go against the rejuvenated New Haven team.

This is the vital game of the Eastern championship series. All other teams in the group have fallen fairly easy victims to the smooth and intelligent hockey of the Unicorn.

B. A. A. has had ten days' rest. Its men are on edge for the battle. New Haven players dote on competition. Their two rugged games with the Victorias have made them fit for the struggle tonight.



Jerry Geran

The game will be rugged. Both teams know that parlor hockey has no place. There will be some stiff checks and the players will be forced to the limit. Few teams have been able to press the B. A. A. The defence presented by Smith, Campbell and La Croix is reliable

B. A. A.'s forward line strength is the department that is likely to be the big factor in the match. Lowery, the flashy right wing; Wilfred Veno and Stanley Veno are corking fine forwards, but it is a question whether these men can stand off the two forward lines the Unicorn will shoot against them.

After they got through holding their own with I. Small, Geran and J. McCarthy New Haven will meet three fresh men in Rice, Reycroft and Enright.

Victoria players who have opposed both teams three times the season favor the B. A. A. to win. But they agree that the Unicorn must be prepared for some hard and rugged hockey before it misses Gerry Wigetz of Sherbrooke Que., has been assigned to referee the match.

Harvard will take no chances with Cornell team in Saturday's doubleheader at the Arena

Canadian school teams are in the field seeking a game with the winner of the Interscholastic Hockey League. Manager Brown is making tentative arrangements with Canadian teams, pending the settlement of the local league series. The Earl Grey School of Lachine, Que., and the Iroquois Indians of Caughnawaga, Que., are anxious to play here.

GREB TO DEFEND TITLE FEB. 23

Harry Greb

New York, Feb. 15—Harry Greb, American light heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Gene Tunney in a 15-round contest at Madison Square Garden, February 23. Tunney lost the light-heavyweight title to Greb last May.

LEWIS AND TODD MEET IN RETURN BATTLE

London, Feb. 15. — Ted "Kid" Lewis is to defend his British welterweight title in a twenty-round bout tonight only a slight favorite over Boland Todd, a clever boxer who carried Lewis through twenty clinching rounds to a disputed verdict some months ago. On that occasion many of the spectators disagreed with the official decision awarding the verdict to Lewis. They thought Todd earned a draw at least. Both men are in top form and the betting is at even money.

MOONEY SPEAKS TO MATCHMAKER

Will you kindly give me a little space in your paper so I may introduce three boys who are anxious to show in Boston—Buddy Saunders of New York, covered lightweight; holder of the National Guard lightweight title; Bud Spratley, the boy that Mickey Walker has evaded for two years, and Jules Fontaine, a smashing middleweight from New Jersey.

Bud Spratley

Now if some matchmaker wants to produce action for his customers let him get in touch with me. I'll put him on the right track

Here's customers for such boys as Al Sears, Jack Thomas, Hambone Kelly, Tommy French, Tommy Famous of New Bedford, Young Whalen of New Bedford or any boy from 115 pounds up to 160 pounds.

QUILL TO FIGHT COX AT LYNN

The Casino A. C. of Lynn has a high class welterweight match for their main event on Monday night. Frankie Quill, of Brockton, will meet Jim. Cox, the fighting Irish man from Athlone. Quill has defeated such boys as Andy Ollotte, Billy Raffy, Young Sharkey, Johnny Red Almon, Billy Carroll, Young Marcell, Wild Mac and Kid Nate to name a few.

Frankie Quill

Cox arrived from country less than a year ago, but has won his way to the front in a big hurry. He claims to have whipped Jack Hanham the English champion who was defeated Eddie Shevlin during the war. Cox hopes to get a match with Quill and make a real contest of it as both boys have the punch.

Buddy Gray of Salem and Eddie Campbell of Lynn will box in the semi final.

There will be two six rounders on the bill.

Will Decide Championship

What will probably be the deciding game for the championship of the Suburban Interscholastic Girls' Basketball League will be played tomorrow afternoon between Lexington and Watertown.

Boston University Head Favors a Student Tax

Students at Boston University advocate a blanket tax upon each student in the University to support athletics. In addition to the $10 now appropriated annually by the trustees for athletics. If the proposed tax of $5 per student, which is one of the plans discussed, goes through, it would more than double the amount now available.

President Lemuel H. Murlin, sponsor of the agitation, said: "I am much interested in the suggestion that an athletic tax be collected from every student and added to the amount now set aside by the trustees for use of the Athletic Council."

ST. MARY'S TO PLAY AGAINST WINTHROP

On Friday evening the Winthrop Legion will journey to Cambridge to meet the St. Mary's team, at St. Mary's Hall, in the second of a three-game series.

This promises to be a very interesting game as St. Mary's are going at a very fast clip.

St. Mary's will play as follows: Sullivan, McKenzie, r. f.; Kelley, l. f.; Connors, c.; J. Haley, r. b., and M. Haley, l. b.

GIANT TURK IS AFTER CALZA'S MAT TITLE

George Calza, the Italian wrestling champion, is in for the time of his young life tonight at the Grand Opera House when he tackles Hassen Ali, the new Terrible Turk, the biggest, baldest and brainiest of all the new foreign mat artists now performing here.

Stanley Stasiak

All will have more than fifty pounds advantage in weight over the Italian champion, and is so confident of his ability to win that he has asked the management to make the event a winner-take-all affair and wants to have a match with Stanley Stasiak, the Polish Hercules, at an early date.

The fact that the public has never seen a man to equal the giant Pole in size, and the fact that the winner of tonight's struggle will be matched to meet the Pole at a later date, will make the Turk work all the harder to win.

The match will be to a positive finish, with no time limit. Both men have insisted on this, as they want the question of supremacy settled once and for all. A large delegation of Turks from Peabody and Worcester have received a block of seats, as they want to be at the ringside when their favorite wins from Calza, as they put it.

Sam Smith has been agreed upon by both men as the referee

Another bout that is attracting a lot of attention is that between Eddie Shaboo, welter and middle-weight champion of the U. S. Navy, of the U. S. S. Florida, and Joe Perelli, the Italian middleweight champion.

In addition to being the champion of the navy and having the support of the sailors Shaboo is of Syrian birth and a host of his fellow countrymen will be on hand to root for him to victory.

On the other hand, Perelli will not lack supporters as he is extremely popular among the Italians of Greater Boston and they will be out in large numbers to see him win.

Charlie Metro, the Albanian Tiger, will meet Frank Mantio in another finish contest.

COACH CHANGES THE HARVARD RELAY TEAM

Thirsting for revenge against Technology, Coach Bill Martin of the Harvard track team has switched his relay team in hope that he can atone for the defeat which the M. I. T. outfit handed the Crimson at the B. A. A. games

Saturday night at the K. of C. games the two local rivals will clash. Each man will run 880 yards instead of 440.

Two new runners have been selected for the quartet. They are Jenkins, the Crimson football star, and Tom Hull, a sophomore from Newton Centre.

The team will be Vinton Chapin, Jimmy Murphy, Hull and Jenkins.

There is a possibility that Hull will not run Captain Bill Burke may be substituted as anchor, despite the fact that he is scheduled to run 720 yards on the Crimson's long distance relay team against Dartmouth.

The crowd will also howl when the Crimson battles the sons of Dartmouth in the 1,000-yard event. Harvard got a trimming from the Yale quartet at the B. A. A., but she has changed her lineup and should furnish more excitement at the "Queen's" games

Campbell Newhall has been displaced by Jimmy Merrill, Harvard's representatives will run in the following order: Chapin, Sherburne Merrill and Burke

HOLY CROSS BEATS VERMONT, 23 TO 22

HARVARD ALSO DEFEATS QUEENS TWO TO ONE

By FRED C. LANE.

The Queen's College hockey team ended its stay here sure that the Hub is well represented in the collegiate field. Harvard defeated the Canadians, 3 to 1. There was something lacking in the clash. Perhaps it was the absence of Hills and Beals from the Harvard lineup.

At times during the three fifteen-minute periods played both sides showed flashes of real form. In the first period the Ottawa team scored a goal

The mass formation offence of the Harvard line swept down the ice in fatuation formation but the defence of the visitors caused the rushes to go for naught.

Guild of the Crimson, who subbed for Beals, did his duty. He grabbed the rubber like a bolt from a clear sky and on a pretty shot from the left side of the net put Harvard on even terms with the Ontario team.

Boucher, who was the prime factor in the B. C. game, scored first for Queen's. He got a good start from behind his own net evaded the Harvard first defence and when the second line converged on him hit the wall with the puck and netted it as it careened off the side walls. It was a pretty bit of hockey that was roundly cheered by the crowd.

The second period was more exciting than the first stanza. Both teams played fast and added pep to the situation.

A decision by Referee Stewart in this period may have had much bearing on the result. The Queen's forward line advanced down the ice but passed the puck as they went along. Near the Harvard line, the rubber was shot to Gibson who netted it, but "off side" was called on the play.

BASEBALL'S NEW LEAGUE SEEMS ONLY TALK

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY

New York, Feb 15.—A lot of talk and conjecture developed over the newly proposed Continental League, which the majors are reported to be considering as a "farm" for players they would send "down" to season

Some scout the proposition as a "team"; others see in it the solution of the draft trouble between the majors and five non-draft minor league circuits. The rift is between majors and minors are badly strained, and if the new league gets under way it will cause a big war.

The International League, against which the Continental would compete, takes the attitude of watching and waiting

It's all talk at present, however, and until unmistakable indications present themselves that the new league will be an actuality it may be called "The Phantom League."

Various club owners of the National League, when asked about it, said: "We have heard about it but not officially. We understand it's a possibility."

Meanwhile, it is a threat to the International League to charge about in its refusal to accept major league players subject to draft; and, also, a threat to the Pacific Coast and Three I Leagues, the American and Western Association, other non draft circuits.

Ed Barrow who has been offered the presidency of the new league, received two telephone calls from persons wanting to know about franchises.

Barrow is considering the presidency proposition, but has nothing to say. He is awaiting developments.

"Dutch" Ruether, star southpaw, has written a friend his side of the argument now on he wears him, and President Charles Ebbets of the Brooklyn club.

His contract reads like this: five thousand dollars flat, $500 for reporting on time, $1 000 for winning 15 games, $1 000 for winning 20 games, $1,500 for good behavior.

He won 21 games and lost 12 and broke up seven or eight more by pinch hitting last season.

In 1921 he won 10 and lost 13, but his contract for 1922 called for $6 500 flat, or $500 more than was offered him this year; $1 000 for winning 15 games and $1,000 for winning 20 games. He won more than 20 games last season, but was only given $500 of the $1,000, and had to argue for that.

Ruth Knocks Ball Over the Yanks' New Fence

New York, Feb. 15.—Babe Ruth is satisfied that the new Yankee Stadium holds no terrors for him. He swung his favorite bat out there for a few minutes and knocked several balls over the outfield stands.

SAILOR FRIEDMAN 10 TO 6 FAVORITE OVER WILLIE HARMON

CHICAGO BOXER KNOWN AS WICKED HITTER

By Ringside.

Sailor Friedman, the Chicago welter, was a 10 to 6 favorite to win his scrap with Willie Harmon at Mechanics tonight, but friends of the Dorchester boxer didn't let that bother them a bit. They figured that their hero would step his victory string intact at the Broadway show, and were all willing to let the works ride to that effect.

Friedman in his workouts here, showed enough to convince the experts watching him that he is in perfect trim for the go. The young man's manager knows that there's plenty of ideas money for ambitious boxers lingering in this part of the world, so naturally he had his meal ticket properly fixed out for an introduction.

In the West they claim that the Sailor is as wicked a hitter as travels about the welter ranks and rugged enough to stand quite a bit of hammering. In all his sessions with the toughest fistic in the light and welter classes he has never done any backing.

Sailor Friedman

Harmon's impressive string of straight victories, thirty in a row, is sufficient evidence of his class. He may not have bumped into quite so much classy talent as his opponent of the evening, but he has chased into all kinds of wrangles, and likes to stand and swap.

So far as getting a couple of styles that figure to provide good milling goss, the matchmaker has done an ideal job. Whatever else happens the bout should be full of action. And that's what the fans want.

Friedman though a welter, is still light enough to get down to the lightweight limit the modern one, if he can get Benny Leonard to consent to a match. He has a referee's decision over the champion but it wasn't at weights. The invader also has knockouts pinned against such stars as Charlie White, Eddie Fitzsimmons and K. O. Loughlin, and that's some record.

The semi-final will be a championship affair with Ben [illegible] of New York, lightweight champion, swapping punches with Walter Lee, who boasts the championship [illegible] of his race along the Pacific Coast. That will be a ten-rounder, as will all the bouts of the evening, and looks like a mighty good attraction, all by itself.

Advance sale of tickets augurs a big crowd, but the club announces that there are plenty of good pastimes left. They will be on sale all day at the Fenway office, No. 39 Court street. The telephone number is Congress 2024.

GREAT INTEREST IN ICE DERBY FINALS

By CHARLES E. BARKER

Interest in the GOLD SKATES RACES is reviving.

The two-weeks' postponement of the semi-final and final heats in Greater Boston's First Annual Ice Skating Derby—the GOLD SKATES RACES—made necessary by inclement weather, naturally took some of the edge off the undertaking.

But the re-scheduling of the races for next Saturday afternoon, and in the Boston Arena, where rain or snow cannot spoil the ice or inconvenience the onlookers, has sent GOLD SKATES RACES stock a-shooting.

Everybody is talking the derby once more, and thousands are planning to witness the series of Greater Boston skating races, which will determine who, of the more than 100 semi-finalists and finalists, are the best skaters in this section.

Each of the contestants in Saturday's races is a skater of proved ability. They form but 10 per cent of the original list of boys and girl and [illegible] who [illegible] entered [illegible] three months ago and the reason they remain to seek are for the valuable prize in that in the GOLD SKATES trial races they proved themselves the 100 ablest speed skaters of the lot.

Each either won a trial heat or placed so close to the winner that the right to contest for the prizes was granted.

Many of next Saturday's performers have not been [illegible] since they [illegible] the GOLD SKATES trials At the City of Boston Carnival one of their number were prize winners at the Laconia, N. H., Carnival a half-dozen others emerged successfully in skating competition, and in other skating meets in New England several numbers captured high scoring positions.

And when they all are assembled at the Arena on Saturday they should be in excellent form and capable of giving the assembled throng speed skating thrills such as have not been seen in the Winter.

Their first [illegible] of the Saturday's big races [illegible] tomorrow between 1.30 and 2 o'clock at the Arena. Manager George W. Brown has [illegible] that [illegible] the [illegible] so [illegible] that [illegible] surface [illegible] some of the younger skaters may not be able to avail themselves of this opportunity for practice owing to school duties it is expected a large portion of the more than one hundred will engage in practice spins over the course.

On Saturday, a nominal admission fee of only 25 cents will be charged those who wish to watch the races, and because of the returning interest in the big event, it is expected the Arena will be packed to [illegible].

Every section of the city and the [illegible] of the surrounding towns and [illegible] have representatives in the list of contestants and in every [illegible] there is [illegible] that [illegible] will [illegible] organized go urge such representatives to victory.

All contestants must be on hand at 1.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon ready for the races to begin at 2.

MANY ENTRIES FOR MAT CHAMPIONSHIP

Many entries have now been received from Springfield, Providence, Fall River and Worcester, for the New England wrestling championships at the Cambridge "Y", February 20. Entries are expected from M. I. T., Harvard, Brown and Tufts.

The meet will work in promptly at 8 o'clock. Wrestling will begin at 7 o'clock and in the case of three [illegible] the entire program of between twenty and eighty entries will be finished by 11 o'clock.

Arthur Mather has charge of the referees and judges. The new point system will be used and the men who show the best wrestling will be sent to New York for the nationals which take place February 26 and 27.

Anyone desiring entry blanks may get them from J. W. Waters, No. 230 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

PROSPECTS ARE GLOOMY FOR HARVARD NINE

Without a veteran pitcher, with the star infield broken up, and only three seasoned players available, Harvard's varsity baseball prospects for the coming season are indeed gloomy.

Last year Harvard had the best nine since 1916, the year that Pitcher Eddie Mahan triumphed over the World's Champion Red Sox, 1 to 0.

The three veterans are Captain George Owen of Newton, first base; Percy Jenkins, the Quincy lad, who held down the keystone sack, and Lew Gordon of Gloucester, who patrolled right field last season.

The pitching was up to Earl Brown, a colored lad from New York city. This week Brown received notice that he had been placed on probation.

So now Harvard has no pitcher. She has a schedule of three games a week for about ten weeks.

Harvard has no veteran catcher. Leonard Larrabee, a former Middlesex School player from Highland Park, Ill., the home of Georges Mosely, the old Yale All-American end, was a sub catcher on the squad last year.

Ray Keegan, backstop and captain of the subs last year, is light, but heady. He knows quite a bit of baseball and to a great degree is responsible for the success of Anastas, Cobitt, Rawlings, Gambell, Brown on the seconds last Spring. "Hammie" Samborski of Westfield, who caught on the freshman nine last season, is another possibility.

Brown is making arduous attempts to be relieved from probation. Many of the students are rooting for the colored boy, whose popular cognomen is "Eight Ball" because of his skill at pool.

Coach Jack Slattery has a squad of embryo boxmen working out in the Soldiers Field baseball cage. None of them look good. Some who are attempting to fill the bill are Hill, Herrmann, Bemis, Toulmin, Cordingly, Norris, Spalding, Young, and Sawyer.

Bemis and Hill had some experience on the varsity squad the first part of last year. Herrmann, a Californian, was first string cub moundsman, and Spalding subbed for him. Toulmin is a converted third baseman and Norris has been switched from second string first baseman. Young subbed for Brown on the scrubs last year.

The battery situation is gloomy. If Brown can be relieved of the probation the situation will be relieved.

DODGERS TRADE TWO STARS TO THE CARDS

New York, Feb. 15.—Charley Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, announced today that he had traded an outfielder, Hi Myers, to the St. Louis Cardinals and Pitcher Clarence Mitchell to the Philadelphia National League Club in a pair of deals put over late last night.

In exchange for Myers, he obtained Jacques Fournier, first baseman, from the Cardinals, and for Mitchell he obtained George Smith, right-hand pitcher from Philadelphia.

"The deals were made on a straight player basis," Ebbets declared. "No money was involved. They are in line with my policy of trying to build up the Dodgers to the championship proportions of several years ago.

"We needed a first baseman badly, much worse in fact that we needed Myers' services in the outfield. Fournier will fill the position for us satisfactorily. Mitchell had outgrown his usefulness in Brooklyn and I regard Smith as being of more value to my club."

Baseball men, however, were unanimous in declaring that Branch Rickey had "outsmarted" Ebbets in the Myers-Fournier transfer. The latter is being rewarded as being more or less passe, having been benched last Summer in favor of Pottomley, a recruit. Myers, still a first-class outfielder, is expected to [illegible] a long way toward filling the hole in the Cardinal outfield caused by the death of Austin McHenry.

For Unruly Hair

Millions now use Stacomb

There was a time when men with unruly hair could not correct this fault to an otherwise well dressed appearance.

Now they overcome it with Stacomb, made for fractious hair.

They simply apply it in the morning and the hair stays neatly combed all day—in keeping with the neatness of their clothes and shoes.

So great is the need for aid like this and so effective is Stacomb that it is the fastest selling product ever made for the hair.

Learn why so many use it. See how it controls your hair, no matter how unruly.

The Natural Way

The scalp absorbs these oils, so Stacomb shows only in a neatly combed effect, leaving the most dry and brittle hair naturally soft and lustrous.

Men, women, children—all find Stacomb makes their hair stay combed—even after the hair has just been washed, because it replaces the natural oils washed out.

"Try To Hit It" The BULLSEYE by [illegible]

DEAR NICK—One of my friends called me up today to tell me that the gang was going to give me a surprise party next week. That's an old gag; they just want to be sure you have enough stuff for them to eat and drink when they get there, and if you ever get half as much for a surprise as you have to kick in for the groceries, you're lucky. Why don't you print this? They'll know who I mean when they read it.

UPHAM GEORGE.

Maybe you have the right idea, George, then maybe again you have not. Knowing that you might be bashful, your friend would call up so that you would have a chance to duck out of town on that night, and thereby escape the embarrassment of being surprised. Or perhaps he—or was it she—wished you to be ready, so that when they surprised you you could act properly surprised and tell them how surprised you were with your surprise. There are a whole lot of angles to everything, George, and the bird who gets along best in the one who looks on the bright side, and doesn't try to find a knock on all that he hears. You will still be surprised at that, because you don't know what you're going to get, and if you have a speech all made up about the swell watch, it would cross you all up if they handed you a pair of skates, or one good skate, or something. You should remember that anything you get for nothing these days is worth having. Or, [illegible] you [illegible] rather [illegible] some of the [illegible] think enough of you to kick in to buy some ring you should be willing to blow them to a pretty swell layout. Twenty years from now you will be glad to [illegible] the young folks "I never will forget the night the bunch [illegible] me [illegible] years. So cheer up, George, and if you're nervous we'll write a speech for you at regular rates.

YER liked to climb up on the waterin' trough where the horses drank and hoid yer head under one of the spigots and have a big drink, An' how great yer felt when yer did, because the waterin' trough was a big fancy, bulgin' iron affair an' the sides was slippery an' it was hard work scalin' it an' yer had to hold on carefully so yer wouldn't fall in.

An' the water came out through iron heads of lions an' there was always a scum o' green around the edge of the water an' yer often wondered what that was until one day yer saw it in the corners of a horse's mouth. 'N' what fun yer thought it was to wait till a team o' horses was drinkin' an' then drop a cobble stone into the trough with a splash an' they'd backup with a start and a snort an' the driver would swear like blazes an' wanna chase yer.

An' the place at the bottom for snarrows to drink an' how the drivers always had to jump down at the trough to unloose the check rein on their horse's.

'N, when yer used to go swimmin' on hot Summer days an' we'd go down the street with yer tights tied round yer neck with the tights part hangin' down yer back. An' the gang always had a race to see who'd get undressed first an' kept chantin' all the time, "The last guy in's a sissy."

An' yer always holered that he may what was barefoot had a head start.

'N when yer used to go swimmin' everybody have a wonderful time but yer wouldn't be thinkin' of anything special but lookin' for fish because they stung yer feet yer know an' seein how long yer could stay under, but when yer come out yer'd discover some one had cut yer garters an' "shewed beef" on yer clothes an' it would take yer an hour to get 'em straightened out an' yer'd be mad enough to cry while all the gang would do was laugh.

MONOLOGUES

By L. M. W.

HAVE I seen Ethel's new gown?
I should say I have.
The dear girl—she's a sweet thing, isn't she?
But I wonder what near-sighted and color-blind clerk
Sarved her a shrimp bought that dreary
Thing all blue, with a touch of yellow in it.
It's a shame some one didn't go along to Protect her, for you do know
What a perfect child Ethel is when it comes to Buying clothes; in fact, I often wonder if
She has a streak of the Oriental in her—
Such barbaric taste in colors,
Loud ones and plenty of them, my dear.
Truly, one can almost hear her garments
Shriek a block away; it's too bad
Some one should speak to Ethel about it,
In a kindly way, of course,
Not to offend her or hurt her feelings.
But really she would be very good looking
If she selected the proper things to wear—
And if it weren't for her nose,
Which is rather large and prominent—
Even her best friends will acknowledge that—
Not that she hasn't the money to buy,
For we are all aware that her income is Sufficient to get good clothes.
Well, there's no accounting for some tastes—
Why, I do declare, here she is now.
Ethel, dear, how are you?
I was just admiring your new frock;
Isn't it exquisite!
And so colorful! How I do envy you!

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

THERE is a new device on the market which enables a man to cut his own hair. You can buy this machine most anywhere except in a barber shop.

ONE barber started cutting his own hair and before he got through he had talked himself into a shave and massage.

HE got so excited over the invention that he let his own wife give him a manicure.

NOT only that but he tried to take her out to dinner.

THERE'S no reason why a man can't cut his own hair. All he has to do is to learn how to talk to himself while he's cutting it.

AND a man who's conversing with himself can't liable to get into any arguments.

IF he says something he doesn't like, then he can beg his own pardon.

NO man ever punched his own nose for saying something to himself that he didn't approve of.

WHY shouldn't you be your own barber? You can deliver a monologue as well as any man who works in a tonsorial parlor.

IT isn't necessary to ask yourself more than once if you want tonic on your hair.

THEN if nobody's looking you can cheat yourself if you want to, by putting water on it.

WHY let a stranger rob you when you can cheat yourself?

THIS new device was invented by a bald-headed man. He wasn't going to take a chance and spoil his hair with it

HE tried to get the Smith Brothers to back him, but the only thing they'd be interested in is a harvesting machine.

THEY need something that will cut the hair and bale it at the same time.

BUT this new patent will not do away with barber shops. We've got to have some place to go and get our hair fixed after we spoil it.

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

THE STORY TO DATE

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the great war is on. With him is his friend, Attilio Castro, and other acquaintances. The prince, on returning to Villa Sirena, finds everything changed owing to the war. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. Castro smilingly remarks that he would be content with one-tenth of the remains. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. The Prince says he will not receive her. The story reverts to the marriage of the Prince's father and mother and the son's early raining. His father dies and his mother marries again. Her new sister-in-law has a small daughter, Alicia. They come to Paris to live. Alicia fights with Michael, who returns to Russia and takes up military training, but is exiled on account of his wild actions. He returns to Paris and meets Alicia.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown.

LAVISH display, which in other centuries had been within reach of only the very few families, was now possible for every one. All one required to master it was money. Besides, it was necessary to take into account the present day progress in material things, which has made life easier, but at the same time has increased our needs. "The motor car and the pearl necklace have made more victims than the wars of Napoleon," said Attilio.

So the Prince went his way as a conqueror through a world in which the most solid virtues seemed to vanish before his advance, until finally even sincere resistance appeared to him to be clever scheming. A few women really felt a sincere interest in Michael Fedor for his own sake, because of the mysterious prestige of his voyages in a boat which was talked about as though it were an enchanted palace, also because of his adventures with celebrated actresses and women of high society, which made him more attractive. But once their vanity and curiosity were satisfied, they, too, were likely to allow their own self-interest to have a word.

The ambitious ones who feigned deep, passionate love with the extraordinary hope of marriage, the sentimental ones who tried to interest him with psychological subtleties, and those who kept their maternal tenderness and murmured in his ear how happy it would be to have a child who might resemble him, waited for him in vain the following day. "Neither great loves nor children!" Two trails of smoke were soon rising from the yacht, carrying its owner to another port, or perhaps to another continent.

A Godlike Pride

These flights, however, were never undertaken without a generous remembrance. Michael Fedor's munificence continued for those whom he had abandoned. Each year new names were added to his budget, like that of a reigning house which alone pensions to its forgotten servants. But the pensions of Prince Lubimoff were for the maintenance of luxury and not of life. The most modest sums were of thirty thousand francs a year. The average was double that amount.

"Your Excellency," his administrator would say, "there will simply have to be a revision."

Michael would examine the list of names, hesitating at a few. He could not recall the persons who bore them. Then he would smile, as certain visions were suddenly recalled to mind. He was immensely wealthy; why not keep up the luxury which was the one dream of all of them? . . . He was not disturbed by the thought that his successors would reap the benefit of that luxury.

He felt a certain god-like pride in making his generosity felt at all times, without being present himself. In Paris a jewelry art shop, in charge of a Jew of Spanish origin, worked entirely for the production of the Prince's gifts. His gems of high intrinsic value, with no false artifices, had a certain air of resemblance, like a sort of imaginary perfume which was recognizable to the women who displayed them.

When least expected, in the dingroom of a hotel, at the tea hour, at an elegant watering place, or at a dance, two women who had just met would gaze at each other's ears and breast in silence, until the bolder, blushing imperceptibly under her rouge, would ask simply: "Are you acquainted with Prince Lubimoff? . . ."

Returning from one of his excursions, during which he went about the world as though it were his own estate, he received by wireless the news that Germany had declared war against Russia and France.

He felt no great surprise. He knew William II. personally. Indeed it was because of him that Prince Lubimoff had avoided lately cruising off the coast of Norway.

A few years earlier—the Summer following his acquisition of the Gaviota II.—he had come across the imperial yacht in those parts. The Kaiser, like an officious, all-knowing neighbor, came to see him in order to investigate the yacht, examining it in all its details, giving advice, reviewing the men and materials, making a dissertation on the engines, and interrupting himself to advise certain changes in the uniform of the crew. After a breakfast on his own yacht, and luncheon on the Emperor's, Prince Michael had had enough of his unexpected friendship.

His Idea of Wilhelm

Lohengrin, with his winged helmet, white mantle, and both hands on the hilt of his sword, was less unbearable than this gentleman with turned-up mustache and wolfish teeth, dressed like a sailor, who laughed a false and brutal laugh and played the role of a man of great simplicity, of an unconventional sovereign, whenever he met on the seas a multi-millionaire from America, or Europe.

Money inspired deep veneration in this storybook hero, whose mind was filled with grandeur. Michael had never shared the enthusiasm of various snobs for the German Emperor. He smiled at his theatrical tastes, his warlike bravadoes and his intellectual ambitions, which pretended to embrace everything.

"Wilhelm is a comedian," said the Prince on receiving the news of the war, "a comedian who for a long time is going to make the whole world weep. . . . And to think that the fate of mankind depends on him! . . ."

Prince Michael Fedor considered himself as a being set apart from the rest of mankind. He lamented the war as something terrible for the rest, but which could not influence his own particular fate. Since a madness for blood had descended upon Europe he would go on sailing distant seas. Thanks to his wealth, he could keep beyond the margins of the struggle.

But times changed rapidly; life was not the same; the old value had been supplanted. In spite of her Russian flag, the Gaviota II. found herself halted by some English torpedo boats and submitted to a minute inspection. They would not believe that anyone should be cruising for pleasure when all the seas had been converted into a battlefield. Even in the latitude of the Azores it had once become necessary to force the engines in order to escape from a German corsair.

Coal Grows Scarce

Besides, coal was getting scarce. The various supplies here and there on the coast were being kept for warships. Important news kept coming by wireless from far-off Paris, where the chief authorized agent of the Prince was located. Communications had been broken off between him and the administrators of the Lubimoff fortune in Russia. No money was coming from there, and the Paris banks, with their vaults closed by the moratorium, were still able secretly to lend money to a millionaire like the Prince, but by no means enough to meet his needs.

The yacht came to anchor in the port of Monaco, in front of Monte Carlo, on arriving in Paris, almost laughed, as though witnessing some preposterous change in the laws of nature. The heir of the Lubimoffs in need of money, and compelled to make an effort to obtain it, something he had never done in all his life! Here he was having to ask for loans at frightfully usurious rates, on the security of his distant and famous wealth.

THE GREAT DOG STAR

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"HOW far is the great 'dog star,' Sirius, from the earth?" asks a reader. About fifty trillions (50,000,000,000,000) miles. By the British system of numeration this would be called fifty billions, but we don't use the British system in this country.

The astronomer seldom speaks of the distance of a star in miles, for that is like reckoning the distance around the earth in ten-thousandths of an inch! In fact there are more than three times as many miles between us and Sirius than there are ten-thousandths of an inch in the circumference of our planet.

Still, we use miles in describing the distances of stars for those who are not accustomed to the astronomer's units of measurement.

The astronomer reckons by parallax. The parallax of a star is the angle that the semi-diameter of the earth's orbit, i.e., the earth's distance from the sun, would subtend to an eye looking at it from the star. It is measured by the change in the star's position when viewed at opposite times of the year. This angle is never more than a fraction—often a small fraction—of a single second of arc.

There are 1,296,000 seconds in a complete circle, and 206,265 of these seconds measure an arc equal to the radius of the circle. The distance of an object whose parallax was 206,265 seconds would be equal to the radius. If its parallax was 1 second its distance would be 206,265 times the radius.

But in parallax measurements of the stars we use for radius the semi-diameter of the earth's orbit which is 93,000,000 miles. Then, the distance is called a parsec, and is one of the astronomer's yardsticks. It amounts to about 19 trillions of miles.

But the parallax of Sirius is only 0.376 of a second. To turn it into miles we have to divide nineteen trillions by the fraction 0.376. The result of the division gives us, as already stated, about 50,000,000,000,000 miles for the distance of Sirius.

In astronomical books and papers you will find star distances given simply in the form of the parallax. But if you remember what has been told you in the paragraph above, you can always easily translate the given parallaxes into distance in miles.

Sirius is by far the brightest star in the whole sky, to our eyes. But it is far from being actually the brightest. Apparent brightness depends upon distance. When the amount of light that we get from Sirius is compared with the amount that we get from the sun, we find that the ratio is about as one to 10,000,000,000.

Now, as we have seen, the distance of Sirius is about 537,600 times that of the sun. But, the intensity of light diminishes inversely as the square of the distance. So, squaring 537,600, and dividing the result by 7,000,000,000, we get the quotient forty, representing the number of times that the actual brightness of Sirius exceeds that of the sun. Many recent estimates reduce this to about twenty-five or twenty-six times.

When you look at Sirius on a sparkling Winter night you are surprised and delighted by the intense blue-white brilliance of its piercing rays. Its color is not that which our sun would exhibit if put in its place. The sun would show a color more like that of Capella, or perhaps even Arcturus. Sirius, although a greater sun than ours, is a younger one, i. e., at an earlier stage of development. It is hotter and much brighter per unit of surface. It has been calculated that Sirius is only about twice as great as the sun in diameter.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky if You Have DECISION

TODAY will be singularly fortunate for you if you were born when the sun was in Aquarius, as Thursday is a day of extreme good luck for such people.

If you have been undecided how to deal with a difficult problem, whether in your business or personal life, a decision arrived at today cannot fail to bring about the most gratifying results. Any venture started today will flourish like the flowers in May.

Don't ask the advice of friends. Use your own judgment—it is better than the rest.

The aspects indicate a person with skill of execution and persistence of purpose, that will go far to bring success in life. Care must be taken to avoid wandering from the right road, attributable sometimes to a confused state of mind, brought about by ignorance or by want of quickness of thought.

On this day in the year 1723 there was inaugurated the most monstrous commercial folly of modern times, the famous South Sea Bubble. This was a wildcat scheme which appealed in a most remarkable manner to English people. Vast fortunes were lost and many prominent people were sentenced to terms of imprisonment.

Those born in Aquarius should possess pronounced literary talent. Robert Burns, John Ruskin and Charles Dickens were born under this sign.

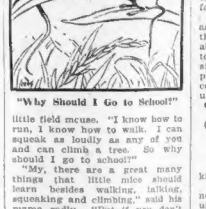
The Foolish Little Field Mouse Who Wanted Adventure.

TEENIE-WEENIE was a tiny little field mouse who lived with his mama and brothers and sister, in their house out in the cornfield. Mama Field Mouse had built it long before the baby mice had come into the home. She was mighty proud of her little tangled house, and it almost broke her heart to hear Teenie-Weenie complaining of his home.

But that wasn't all that Teenie-Weenie complained about. He didn't like to go to mouse-school, which distressed his mother, too.

"I can't see any sense in going to school," growled the foolish little field mouse. "I know how to run, I know how to walk. I can squeak as loudly as any of you and can climb a tree. So why should I go to school?"



"Why Should I Go to School?"

"My, there are a great many things that little mice should learn besides walking, talking, squeaking and climbing," said his mama sadly. "But if you don't think you'll need it, then all right. Maybe some day you'll see your mistake—I hope not before it's too late."

"I'll take mine out in traveling," snapped the foolish mouse, and away he scampered over the fields and out of sight.

All the other children washed and dressed themselves as good little field-mice should do. Mama Field-Mouse had to work hard all day to keep from worrying over her wayward son, Teenie-Weenie.

Nothing passed Teenie-Weenie. He trotted over the cornfield and across the meadow. He had never ventured across the meadow land before, and he felt very big and quite proud of himself.

He hadn't gone far when a strange thing happened. In some way or other his little hind foot slipped. When he looked down at it, instead of standing straight on the limb both of his hind feet were turned almost halfway around. My! How Teenie-Weenie's little heart thumped against his sides.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" And the big tears rolled down Teenie-Weenie's cheek. "What shall I do"——

"There, there, Mother Field-Mousie was right," said a kindly voice, and Mrs. Sparrow hopped down beside the weeping mouse. "She has been dreadfully worried about you. There is a lot you must learn before you grow. What's the ... uble now?"

Teenie-Weenie sobbed and pointed to his funny-looking feet.

"I've twisted them, and I just knew I can't walk," he sobbed.

"Oh, oh, oh!" laughed Mrs. Sparrow. "Your feet are all right. That's the way they should be. Didn't you know that? Sure enough, every little field mousie's hind feet are constructed that way so they can turn almost half way around. That's one of the things you learn in school. Now turn them around and run along." And with a merry chirp Mrs. Sparrow sailed away.

Teenie-Weenie wiped his tears on a leaf and straightened his feet out, but instead of going on he turned around and ran home as fast as he could go.

His mama didn't scold him or ask any questions. But that was the last time he ever complained about anything again. He went to school with his brothers and sisters, and found out there was plenty to be learned before he could call himself a really grown-up little field-mousie.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

In this work-a-day world we cannot always hold to the ideal. Sometimes we are compelled to accept something short of the ideal. We have to wrestle with the practical, not merely with the theoretical.

Take the ship subsidies.

* * *

In theory, I am against ship subsidies, just as I believe the world would be better off were tariff makers to see how low, rather than how high, they could make tariff walls.

* * *

But statesmen and business must deal with actualities, not only with principles impossible of feasible application. The Latins have a saying that a man must first live before he can philosophize. In other words, you have to procure food and clothing and shelter; you have to make ends meet.

* * *

Now, while I look upon ship subsidies as theoretically evil, I am convinced that a ship subsidy has became a very necessary evil for America to adopt at this stage of her commercial and maritime development.

One powerful reason for Great Britain's dominating place in the world for decades has been her possession of an unmatched merchant marine. Her armadas of merchant ships plying every ocean and sea and bay and inlet have won her not only vast profits, but have played a leading part in building up her influence, her power, her greatness throughout the world.

Ships and national greatness have gone hand in hand all through commercial history.

After having spent two or three billions of dollars to acquire a fast fleet of mercantile ships, surely it is penny wise and pound foolish for the United States government to sacrifice our opportunity on the seas for the sake of some thirty millions dollars a year, which is just the sum that the scheming politicians in Washington are determined to take from you and me and other taxpayers in order to fill the infamous "pork barrel."

* * *

* * *

This is the same Congress that is willing to endorse total annual expenditures by the government of some three and a half billion dollars. Surely this is a flagrant case of swallowing a camel and straining at a gnat.

EIGHT SUGARS UP $45,000,000

Eight listed sugar stocks appreciated from the lows of 1923 to the high prices of Tuesday more than $5,000,000. From the 1922 bottom prices of Cuba Cane Sugar common, formerly paid something to their shareholders. Obviously, therefore, the market is anticipating a return to the ranks of dividend payers.

The following table is self-explanatory:

U. S. ENVELOPE IN INCREASED EARNINGS

United States Envelope Company, reports for calendar year 1922 net earnings after charges and taxes but before depreciation of $940,461. After dividends of $280,000 on preferred stock the balance of $660,461 is equal to $17.73 a share on the 31,750-000 common stock. This compares with $17.94 a share earned in 1921 on the same amount of common. After depreciation of $437,274, profits for 1922 were equal to $12.83 a share on the common.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S RESERVE INCREASES

Weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve, increased £764,000. Circulation decreased £(767,000. Bullion increased £2,606. Other securities increased £(4,311,000. Other deposits increased £3,382,000. Public deposits decreased £1,823,000. Notes reserve increased £783,000. Government securities decreased $560,000.

Orders for Steel Are Booked for Months Ahead

Prominent steel men emphasize the fact that the demand for their products is far in excess of their mill capacity. The president of an independent steel company states that premiums are being offered by large consumers for deliveries over the next three months. As they are booked up to July, it is impossible to accept orders for prior deliveries and consequently thousands of dollars worth of new business is being turned down daily.

What will happen when foreign demand makes itself felt is problematical.

CAMBRIDGE SITE FOR NATIONAL BISCUIT

National Biscuit Company negotiations for a site in Cambridge, reported in the Boston American several weeks ago, have been successfully concluded, company having secured land in University road, United States Industrial Alcohol Company for construction of a large bakery with 20 ovens. A power plant in New York will also be built at Tenth avenue and Forty-fifth street. It will be eight stories high and will also contain a bakery. This will supply power for all bakeries east of Tenth avenue and will heat all bakeries from exhaust steam, affording a large saving.

UNITED FRUIT CO. PROFITS INCREASE

United Fruit Company, has issued its annual report for 1922, showing balance available for dividends on the $100,000,000 stock after all charges and estimated taxes $18,851,818, equal to $18.85 a share. This compares with net of $16,975,763 in 1921, $19,693,207 in 1920, and $20,163,517 for the fifteen months ended December 31, 1919.

During the year the company credited back to profit and loss balance a reserve for uninsured losses amounting to $1,162,930. As a result the total increase in profit and loss surplus for the year was $10,014,248.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

MARION DAVIES.

THE first showing in Boston of Marion Davies' newest Cosmopolitan picture, "Adam and Eva," will be made at the Tremont Theatre next week. In this picture Miss Davies moves out of the costume period and made so popular with her "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and appears in a smart, up-to-the-minute American girl, who knows what she wants and how to get it. "Adam and Eva" is delightful comedy with something of the well known "punch" back of its story, affording Miss Davies a rare opportunity for the display of her fine talents.

TRIED IT ON MIRROR.

MALCOLM McGREGOR, who appears with Viola Dana in "A Noise in Newboro," once entered in an amateur theatrical event while he was in high school. He practiced before the mirror, as per instructions from a correspondence school. In succession he ran through the conventional gamut of surprise, disdain, anger, mirth, sadness, wistfulness and the rest of them.

"I realize now," said McGregor recently, "that there was one expression I felt out. That was sheepishness. But that's easy now. All I have to do is think of that before-the-mirror scene, and I register sheepishness at once."

NEW SCREEN STAR.

A NEW screen star will flash before the eyes of local fans next week when "Mighty La' a Rose" will be given its first Boston showing at Gordon's Olympia. Dorothy Mackaill, one of Mr. Ziegfeld's star beauties of a season or two ago is the female player in the picture. This young lady has had a meteoric career. When but ten years old she was teaching dancing in her father's academy in Hull, England, and at sixteen she was leading the two big song numbers in "Joybells" at the London Hippodrome. At seventeen she was one of the brightest lights in the Ziegfeld cluster of beauties and now, at eighteen, she has blossomed into a full sized star.

LYTELL ON NEW JOB.

THE first big name in the Sol Lesser Productions family is that of Bert Lytell, who has been engaged to play the stellar role in the screen version of George M. Cohan's "The Meanest Man in the World." The screen rights to all Harold Bell Wright's novels have been acquired by the Sol Lesser Productions, and it is probable that following the production of "The Meanest Man in the World," Bert Lytell will appear in either "The Winning of Barbara Worth" or "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent."

ROXBURY TO HAVE HEBREW SCHOOL

Arrangements have been completed for the opening of the Roxbury Hebrew school, the largest of its kind in New England, to be held in March. The school is located on Olmsfield street, Roxbury, and is to be devoted entirely to the teaching of Hebrew, Jewish history and literature.

In connection with the opening, plans are being made for a banquet at the school, the proceeds to be given to the school building fund. The committee in charge includes Samuel Kabatnick, chairman; Mrs. Julius Karisberg, Louis Goldstein, Mrs. Lifshitz, Samuel Cabelinsky, Mrs. Anna Weinbaum, Mrs. Louis Zahler, Mrs. Samuel Rubenstein, Mrs. Isaac Kagen, Mrs. Louis Goldstein and others.

REAL ESTATE HAPPENINGS

The brick and stone apartment property at Beacon and Munson streets, known as the Blenford and Westchester, has been sold by Jacob J. Yonker to M. Berson. The land area is 10,320 square feet, and the total assessment is $162,000, of which $32,900 is on the land.

SOUTH END TRANSACTIONS

Charles H. Caludban has conveyed to Paul Frisoriski the 2½-story brick building and 2,016 square feet of land at Worcester street and Shawmut avenue, corner of Stevens street. Also total value is $25,000, of which the land bears $6,000.

Emily J. Seminara has acquired from Myrtle Blackburn the four-story brick property and 1,562 square feet of land at No. 430 Columbus avenue, taxed for $5,600 on the land and $4,500 on the building.

NEAR FORT HILL SQUARE

The brick business property and 2,290 square feet of land at Nos. 127-129 High street, near Fort Hill square, taxed for $56,000, has been transferred by Ray C. Johnson to Louville V. Niles. The land is taxed for $42,000.

NEW EXCHANGE MEMBERS

At a meeting of the directors of the Boston Real Estate Exchange the following were elected resident annual members of the exchange: Daniel D. Carey, real estate, No. 56 Ames Building; Frank A. Ewart, real estate, No. 82 Devonshire street; Ronald B. Fairey, real estate, No. 89 Harvard avenue, Allston; James W. Gibson, real estate, No. 131 State street; Mahlon W. Senator Walsh on Coal

We read Senator Walsh's discussion of the coal situation in last Sunday's Globe with great interest. Senator Walsh reviews the situation clearly and denounces it roundly. But when we came to an abrupt end of a three-column article we looked vainly for its continuance to another column, for we had not noticed any remedy which Senator Walsh had to suggest. Here and there throughout the Senator threatened the country with public ownership of the railroads and the mines, if the country did not do better.

But no suggestion came from our good Senator concerning a remedy unless it was public ownership and operation of the railroads and of the coal mines. But the Senator used such language concerning public ownership and operation of the railroads that made us think that he regarded it as a thing with which to scare children.

We had always supposed that the good Senator believed in the public ownership and operation OF THE RAILROADS at least. We expected down to the last paragraph to have the Senator say that public operation of the railroads was the ONLY remedy, as indeed it is the only remedy; and moreover, it is not a remedy to be taken regretfully or timidly. It is a remedy which we ought to take with rejoicing, because it will cure more than one evil in this country.

We can afford to go through many a Valley Forge for several Winters if only our democratic republic itself is not in danger. Senator Walsh says that the danger of these experiences with coal scarcities is that it develops radicals and makes us discontent with our government. We do not see any danger from radicals; we see a danger from reactionaries, from the men who control the railroads and the coal mines and corrupt our government, and who keep Congress inactive, supine and helpless on these occasions when the people are crying to them for help. It was not radicals who overthrew the Roman Republic or the Athenian Republic or the Republic of Italy during the Renaissance. Republics are not overthrown by radicals. Republics are overthrown by the exploiters of the public wealth, of the public prosperity. They are overthrown and always have been by men who stole out of the public wealth, who converted from the public to their own private pockets huge fortunes. The way of the death of republics has always been the way by which private individuals accumulated great fortunes through the control of the government which enabled them to render it supine and helpless while they robbed the people whom the government should have protected.

The lesson of this coal situation in New England ought to be a lesson in favor of public ownership and operation of the railroads. If the people are intelligent they will know that it was not the coal strike which has caused the most of the trouble, but it is the railroads.

Our Senator Walsh is a brave, intelligent and upright man, who never retreats from a sound position he has once taken. Therefore, we assume that the article was hastily written and hastily revised, and that the Senator did not notice the omissions.

Washington dispatches this morning announce that Senator Walsh has taken vigorous action on the coal question. The demand which he makes on the government indicates clearly that we were right when we assumed that he did have a remedy.

Man's Willingness to Work

That and His Pride Save the World

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

What a fortunate thing that men want and like to work. Suppose for a moment that the out-of-work, hungry, unlucky creatures, numbering one hundred thousand in New York city, should suddenly change their character.

It is a harmless supposition, as it implies that a great body of good though unlucky men should be suddenly metamorphosed. But suppose, for instance, that one hundred thousand men should have a meeting and say:

The State provides food, lodging and good care for every THIEF. It does not provide anything for US. Let us therefore accept the situation like philosophers and become thieves.

Suppose the hundred thousand men thereupon very quietly, without any show of violence, should each proceed to steal something and then announce their intention to accept the consequences by pleading guilty. It would embarrass the State and the reigning powers, would it not?

What could society do with a hundred thousand self-confessed thieves to take care of? It could not lock them up. It could not let them go. It could not nominally sentence them and have the Governor pardon them, because the hundred thousand would then proceed to steal something else. What could be done? Nothing. There is no punishment save imprisonment for theft, and the wholesale thieves would ask for and demand imprisonment with the usual rations.

We think that society is well balanced and that everything is ingeniously provided for.

So it is, but everything hinges on the extraordinary fact that the hungry, thin, common, shiftless, luckless man at the very bottom is still a MAN. He will NOT be a thief, and he WILL die of hunger and cold, as poor fellows do almost every day, rather than take the food that society guarantees to the thief.

We attribute much to our own wisdom and the wisdom of our laws. But we owe almost everything to the instinct of self-preservation and to that second, very peculiar instinct, called pride.

For the Czar? Yes.

For Modern Russia? No

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The Bolshevik government asks Secretary Hughes please to keep out enemies of the Bolshevik government that come into the United States, sell stolen property here, and plot against Russia. At that request this government will laugh, "Ha, Ha."

Yet, in the good old days of the Czar, on several occasions we seized and put in jail to oblige HIM fugitives from Russia whose only crime was conspiring against autocracy, trying to establish democracy.

You can't always tell how a republic will work. We were very friendly with Russia while she was ruled by an autocrat. We will have nothing to do with her now that she has to rule herself. Perhaps that indicates that we are not quite ruling OURSELVES here, either.

Some will say, "But we don't like Russia's KIND of government." Possibly. We were supposed not to like the Czar's kind of government, and he certainly didn't like ours, yet we treated him politely.

COCKTAIL TAKEN AS SYMBOL

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

A COCKTAIL is still permissible as a figure of speech, though legally wrong and practically impossible.

So the cocktail—in memory of its ancient gift of superficial exuberance—is here summoned to serve to characterize that smart and flippant exterior which most of us wear to cover our deep seriousness.

For life is real, life is earnest—more than ever before in recorded human experience. And more millions than ever before are taking life exceedingly seriously.

After the terrible tragedy of the Great War, we need to cultivate the brave exuberance of that cocktail exterior even to preserve our sanity.

No wonder that a madness of jazz swept over the western world after the war was over. We survivors had to prove to ourselves that we could still kick up and have a high old time.

Having made a crazy fool of itself on such a colossal scale, the race had to convince itself that we could still be innocently foolish.

After all the destructive wastefulness of those four murderous years, from which our economic system will not under most favorable conditions recover in a generation, it was not surprising that we indulged in a riot of luxury and harmless extravagance.

We needed to show ourselves that we could afford to be childishly foolish.

So here—in pure water of the crystal—clear spirit—is a toast to the cocktail exterior!

More power to it as a symbol of the happy, wise courage and self-respect at the warm heart of you!

Huge Coal Find Near The Pole

The expedition also discovered a new island about 130 miles from the mouth of the Yenisei River, and found a mail bag belonging to the explorer Amundsen, which had been missing since 1918.

Cannot Get Coal

Editor Boston American:

Just a little incident that the public ought to know. Money for coal was paid to a certain coal company eighteen weeks ago without delivery. In the mean time coal had to be purchased from street vendors at prices ranging as high as twenty-four dollars a ton. In my residence there have been several cases of illness, and the occupants have been forced to remain in rooms that are far below a comfortable temperature. G. CHAPMAN.

Saving Coal

Editor Boston American:

I have failed to see why those who are able to buy wood and coal should be obliged to suffer as they are and have been doing. For instance, I burn wood during the day. Towards evening I put on coal for the night. The fresh coal fire not only heats better than if having burnt all day, but much coal is saved. In the morning I begin to burn wood again. The bedroom oil heater that so many women stick their nose up at I have found to be heaven-sent, specially in the cold mornings. While it is necessary to keep them filled and cleaned, they are no more trouble than an ordinary stove. F. J. S.

Believes in Volstead Act

Editor Boston American:

In your issue of Monday, February 5, you have a headline which reads, "Pastor Blames Dry Law for Wet Revere." I would like to have you correct this statement, which is far from being true. I am a firm believer in the eighteenth amendment and worked hard to secure it. I also regard the Volstead act as a proper regulation of the liquor business. The trouble is not with the law, but with officials who fail to enforce it. Not a word has ever been said by me either in public or private against the prohibition program. Thanking you for the courtesy of this correction, I am,

NELSON S. BURBANK,
Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Revere.

Mother Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a mother twenty-seven years old and have two children. My husband has worked very little this Winter, and I have a hard time to get along. If some one has some old clothes to give I would be awfully glad to get them, as I need them badly, especially a coat, size 38 or 40, and shoes, 4½ or 5. I would do some work like housework or sewing around in return for them.

MRS. M. V.

Clothes for Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some children's clothing that I would be glad to give to some worthy family. I hope you will continue your helping hand, as many of us have things we can pass on to others.

MRS. W. C. R.

ED. NOTE — We thank you both for the offer and for the itemized list which makes it easier for us to dispose of the clothes intelligently. The names of two worthy families will be sent you. Children's clothing is always needed.

Hat Evening Gown

Editor Helping Hand:

In answer to Mrs. B., whose request was in a few days ago, I have an evening gown, worn only two or three times, that I would be glad to send. I have also a new pair of silver slippers, never worn. Kindly send address, and I will mail them at once, and with them my wish that she may secure all the work singing that she needs.

MRS. C.

ED. NOTE—I am sure Mrs. B. will appreciate your kindness. Her address will be forwarded you.

Cripple Gets Loom

Editor Helping Hand:

A few days ago I noticed an inquiry regarding the Newcomb fly shuttle loom offered by us through the Helping Hand Column, and would say for your information that I finally decided to give it to what I considered a very worthy boy of twenty years of age. This boy is a cripple and one of eleven children. He understands how to work the loom, having learned to operate it in some school. His application was one of the many you mailed me.

A. M. R.

ED. NOTE—Glad to hear that you found such a deserving case. Thank you for letting us know about it.

Coreless Apples Being Grown

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Seedless and coreless apples are being grown near Abbotsford Canada, it is announced at the Department of Commerce. Consular advices say that with the exception of a slight marking on the interior of the apple, which outlines the location of the core, there is neither core nor seeds.

It differs slightly in shape from the ordinary apple by being longer and flatter at the ends than the ordinary apple, but with the same coloring and flavor.

The apples were produced on ordinary famesue trees which had been top grafted on Rabka seedlings.

Officials of the department said today that this is the first instance, so far as the records of the Government show, where a seedless and coreless apple has been produced.

HUNGER MAY YET TAKE A HAND IN THE GAME

By Herbert Kaufman

RUSSIAN peasants are eating bread made of chaff, sawdust and offal. Some of them are eating their neighbors.

Wolves are leaving the empty North woods and descending upon Midwestern cities. A big pack is now within fifty miles of Chicago.

Herds of deer have invaded Nyack, New York. They browse in the gutters, feed from garbage pails and even graze in the town cemetery.

Hemming and hawing cabinets are advised to consider these three news bits.

Famine fears nothing—it is the supreme fear.

Starving men, beasts of prey and prey of beasts alike, grow desperate when empty bellies drive.

God help the world if the hungry hordes of Europe rise in their might and come bread hunting.

Kemal Wants More Cannon Fodder

The Anatolian Assembly has introduced a law requiring all subjects to marry at twenty-five and have children at regular three-year intervals. Thus in two decades subjects will increase from eight to forty-eight millions.

One of Mustapha Kemal's new ideas. He's running out of cannon fodder.

But population can't be increased by legislation. Subsidy and compulsion are ineffective against the law of Malthus, which holds all breeding subject to the positive and preventative checks of human perversity and natural disaster.

Only peace and plenty can repopulate Turkey. While she wars and wastes, she'll want and wither.

Little Enough for Such Jobs

Senator La Follette's committee finds eleven big Standard Oil officials guilty of salaries ranging from fifty to a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. Little enough for such jobs.

Lots of automobile distributors make more than that. The percentage on many an advertising appropriation exceeds Chairman Bedford's pay.

National Cash Register salesmen often have thousand dollar weeks. The late Harry Rosen's income, as a life insurance agent, was easily a quarter of a million.

But what has all that to do with oil investigation?

What's the Gentleman's Name?

The $250,000 offer made to Mrs. Thomas B. Winter of Minneapolis to lobby a certain bill through Congress is a matter to investigate.

The lady claims to have many friends who spurned similar propositions. She is somewhat vague and reticent, however, in furnishing details.

The same high sense of duty that bids her warn the country of predacious interests should inspire her to expose the name and the game of her tempter.

Few things are more important than knowledge of pending measures so profitable to their engineers, that they can afford to give twice what Standard Oil pays its presidents, and just for a bit of legislative help.

Edison Also Overlooks Some Bets

Success builds its ladders out of the timbers of failures. Abandoned research is the richest field for science. Every new tool and rule is another key for some hitherto hopeless problem.

Sir Oliver Lodge predicted rain would be made and fog dissipated by aeroplane. He had the notion, but not the plane.

All invention is a relay race. The sidings of research are filled with interrupted trains of study waiting to switch back on the track of development.

Even Mr. Edison doesn't always carry through. His spider imagination spun artificial silk years ago. He threw it aside as a misfire because it wasn't the lamp filament he was after. Sir William Crookes wasn't the only one to overlook a gold mine in his laboratory.

Experiment never exhausts its field.

Sword and Famine Slew Them All

Mr. Edison is astonished at the many evidences of culture discovered in Tutankhamen's tomb.

Tutankhamen would be surprised to find Mr. Edison unaware of the many cunning principles and practices in which the wise men of his court were so adept.

The lost civilizations were not the least. We inherit astronomy, mathematics, architecture and physics from very ancient intelligence.

But time's nets are full of broken meshes. Many a precious secret has slipped through the gaps. We cannot temper bronze. We do not know how the pyramids were built.

And hazy hearsay alone informs us of that incredible achievement, the collossus of Rhodes.

Men were great and did tremendous things without leaving a footprint or a mark on the ages.

Early history is unreliable gossip, inspired by vagrant rumor and shards of tradition. It does not spell the mystery of the Mayas or tell where the Incas came from or what the mound builders were like.

We do know that Mesopotamia is the dust of learned and magnificent empires and that Persia is a tattered degenerate ghost of a perished power.

Greece conquered eternity by recording her genius with chisel and styles. Then she crumbled into a stone heap.

But race after race has stalked the earth in majesty to die in obscurity.

Strange and mighty kingdoms that once spread east and west are like Phoenicia and Sidon, wisps of legend and faded patches in the crazyquilt of folk lore.
